

Kidnapers Seek Trade in Guatemala

GUATEMALA (AP) — A group of rebel terrorists held the labor attaché of the U.S. Embassy in Guatemala under the threat of execution today and demanded the release of four jailed guerrillas in exchange for his freedom.

Six gunmen kidnaped Sean M. Holly, 40, as he drove to the embassy Friday. Hours later, the Rebel Armed Forces (FAR) gave the government 48 hours, until 2:30 p.m. Sunday, to free the imprisoned revolutionaries.

Police said Holly's station wagon was forced to stop by the armed men, who had blocked the road through the southern section of the capital with two cars. The diplomat was ordered at gunpoint into one of the two cars.

One of the four guerrillas whose freedom is demanded by the FAR is Jose Manuel Aguirre Monzon, a student arrested this week after he played the role of an intermediary in the release of a leftist student leader in exchange for kidnaped Foreign Minister Alberto Fuentes Mohr. Fuentes Mohr was abducted by gunmen and released 28 hours later when the government agreed to allow the student leader free passage to asylum in Mexico.

The three other captives whose freedom the FAR demanded in exchange for Holly's are Jose A. Sierra, Leonel del Cid and a woman, Vildalina Antonieta Monzon. The Monzons were arrested March 3, de Cid March 1 and Sierra Feb. 27.

Holly, who comes from New York City, is married and the father of five boys, ranging in age from 5 to 11. He has been in Guatemala since July 1963. He joined the diplomatic service in 1957 after four years in the Air Force. He has worked previously in Panama, Mexico, the Netherlands and India.

An American ambassador to Guatemala, John Gordon Mein, was assassinated by machine gunners in August 1968 in a mid-afternoon ambush just a few blocks from the scene of a similar attack which had taken the lives of two American military officers the previous January.

Terrorism from both the extreme right and left has torn Guatemala in recent years, and last Sunday's presidential and congressional election was preceded by a string of violent incidents capped by the kidnap of the foreign minister.

Students March on Broadway for Cleaner Kingston

Sign being carried by students from Ulster Academy in Kingston represents their views on pollution both in the air (gas masks) and on the ground (litter bags). A number of students marched up Broadway yesterday in an effort to focus public attention on the problem of pollution in Kingston. The walk dramatized the end of a week-long Environmental Symposium held at Ulster Academy. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

Some Criticism Of Nixon Speech Concerning Laos

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said Friday after Nixon's 3,000-word statement on the U.S. role in Laos was released at Key Biscayne, Fla.

"There are a number of things that are glossed over," said Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., who said he is pressing for the public release of testimony on Laos given by administration officials before a closed Senate subcommittee.

Nixon said air combat missions over Laos in the last six years have cost nearly 400 U.S. casualties and 400 planes. He said there are no American ground combat troops in Laos and no plans for sending any.

The President said the total number of Americans employed by the U.S. government in Laos is 616. Another 424 are working on contract for the government and for firms under government contract, he said. Of the total, 1,040 Americans, Nixon said, 323 are engaged in military advisory or training activities and 323 in logistics work.

President Nixon had decided to push forward with a tight-budget space program that could include television-monitored unmanned tours of the planets in this decade. Story page 3.

"I don't see anything new in it," said Fulbright of Nixon's statement. He added that it isn't just the statement, "it's the answers we are interested in."

McGovern said he is still interested in a secret Senate session on Laos if the controversial transcript of subcommittee hearings is not released by the administration.

He said that "we have several hundred ground personnel in Laos cooperating with the Laotian Army" in violation of the 1962 Geneva accords.

"Our military planners and our national security people have come to the conclusion that they have a divine right to deceive the American people," McGovern charged.

Sen. George D. Aiken, senior Republican on the Foreign Relations Committee, said he thought Nixon's appeal to Britain and the Soviet Union for help in easing the Laos crisis had the effect of "putting Russia on the spot."

The Vermont Republican said he hopes any Democratic comments on Laos would include the fact that U.S. activities there "have been going on for the last two administrations."

McGovern said he supports the call by Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., for withdrawal from Laos of all U.S. military and civilian personnel "engaged in air strikes or any other combat activity" in what he called "the civil war" in Laos.

Cooper spoke out in the Senate Friday against "the U.S. combat participation in the civil war in Laos, not by the usual military elements but by civilians engaged in air bombing

Three More U.S. Helicopters Lost

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. command reported today the losses of three more helicopters to guerrilla ground fire, bringing to 69 the number of 'copters shot down so far this year—an average of one a day.

Five crewmen were wounded in the downings of the three UH-1 "Huey" helicopters Friday, spokesmen said. Each "Huey" costs about $217,000 and carries a crew of four—pilot, copilot and two door gunners.

Headquarters said 1,508 helicopters have been destroyed as a result of guerrilla ground fire since Jan. 1, 1961. The Viet Cong recently stepped up their efforts to shoot down helicopters and inflict American casualties with little risk to themselves.

The 'copters shot down Friday crashed near Pleiku in the central highlands, near Hue on the northern coast and near Ben Tre in the Mekong Delta, military spokesmen said.

U.S. forces keep about 3,000 helicopters in Vietnam—the small "Hueys" and bigger cargo carriers, along with rescue helicopters.

Communiques disclosed a slight increase in fighting along the Cambodian border, where U.S. troops have uncovered another arms cache, this one containing nine tons of weaponry and ammunition.

Allied headquarters reported four clashes along the frontier with Cambodia Friday, killing a total of 64 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese. U.S. losses were two killed and 29 wounded, with South Vietnamese casualties said to be light.

The latest in a series of arms cache discoveries came 99 miles north-northeast of Saigon, field reports said.

By late Friday, the troops of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division had confiscated 1,100 rounds of mortar ammunition, 84 rifles, 43,000 bullets, 2,400 pounds of TNT, 170 antitank grenades and 340 rocket-propelled grenades.

A list of names of 14 American servicemen being held captive in North Vietnam was released Friday night by a peace group that said it got them in a cable from Hanoi.

The Defense Department refused Friday night to verify that the names on the list were the same as those of missing servicemen.

Chicago Seven defendant David Dellinger, a member of the Committee of Liaison with Families of servicemen detained in North Vietnam, said the list contained these names:

Voting Rights Change Is Defeated in Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, after defeating efforts to water down legislation extending the 1965 Voting Rights Act, takes up next week more Southern challenges to the bill and an attempt to tack on a provision lowering the voting age to 18.

In floor action Friday on the bill that proposes to renew the 1965 measure, rather than adopt a House-passed Nixon administration proposal, the Senate beat back amendments offered by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., to soften the impact of the 1965 law.

Republicans John Tower of Texas and Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska, and Democrat Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia, were the only senators from outside the Deep South joining the minority in Ervin's attempt to slash the number of Dixie counties covered by the 1965 law. The amendment lost 58-19.

Ervin opposes extension of the old act, which prohibits literacy tests and authorizes federal registrars to protect residents' voting rights in areas where less than 50 per cent of the voting age population voted in the 1964 general election.

Those criteria apply only to 36 of 39 North Carolina counties and the states of Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina and Virginia.

Ervin's amendment would have changed the coverage formula so the law would not apply if more than 50 per cent of the eligible voters were registered, regardless of whether they actually voted.

The Senate defeated 43-30 Ervin's attempt to delete from the formula for determining the voting age population servicemen, students, persons confined to mental institutions or prisons and others not qualified to vote anyway.

Ervin said he will propose Monday additional modifications in the legislation. In its present form the bill is favored by many of the Senate's civil rights advocates over an administration proposal to do away with the formula and authorize intervention by federal registrars any place in the country.

Opponents of that bill—which the House passed last December—say it would be so widespread in its scope that it would be difficult to enforce. They say the South would be under less pressure to operate registration programs and elections equitably.

They also criticize the administration bill because it omits a requirement that states covered by the 1965 act obtain advance approval of the U.S. attorney general for changes in their election laws.

In addition to further Ervin amendment battles, the Senate will act next week on an amendment offered by Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana to lower the voting age to 18 nationwide.

Douglas Sentence Monday; Two Murder Trials Slated

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON — Murder cases stemming from the slaying of a Westchester County deputy sheriff by two convicts during a shootout on the Thruway in the Plattekill area, and the fatal shooting of a Kingston man off Field Court, are noted at the head of the calendar in County Court for the opening of the term on Monday.

On that day, 27-year-old Jimmy Boston Douglas, convicted of the murder of a Kingston woman tavern operator, is scheduled to appear before Judge Raymond J. Mino for sentencing.

A trial jury of eight men and four women found Douglas guilty of murder in the slaying of Mrs. Theresa Carpino, 61, operator of the Circle Restaurant and Bar on upper Broadway, in her tavern on the early morning of July 1, 1969. Douglas also was found guilty of arson, a charge that stemmed from a fire in the tavern when the woman's body was found.

The verdict against Douglas was returned to Judge Mino on the night of Jan. 16, after the jury deliberated more than six hours.

Douglas faces a possible maximum sentence of life in prison. The trial of Gerald McGovern and Charles Culhane, both 23 at the time of their arrests on Feb. 13, 1969, is on the calendar in county court and scheduled for airing during the March term. There was some indication the trial may be postponed because of another change of defense counsel.

McGovern and Culhane survived the shootout on the superhighway at the Plattekill rest area, during which 63-year-old William Fitzgerald, a Westchester County deputy sheriff, was killed. McGovern and Culhane and another prisoner, Robert Bowerman were being transported from Auburn State Prison to White Plains for a court hearing, when the trio made a futile attempt to escape.

Fitzgerald and Bowerman were killed during the shooting incident. Another deputy sheriff who had the trio in custody with Fitzgerald was seriously wounded, but he survived. He was Joseph John Singer, 58, of North Tarrytown, and he is expected to be one of the key witnesses for the prosecution at trial.

Last September Culhane and McGovern lost a court fight for a change of venue, seeking to have the trial removed from Ulster County to a Supreme Court outside this area. Justices of the Appellate Division, Third Department in Albany, denied defense motions, which were opposed by District Attorney Joseph P. Torraca.

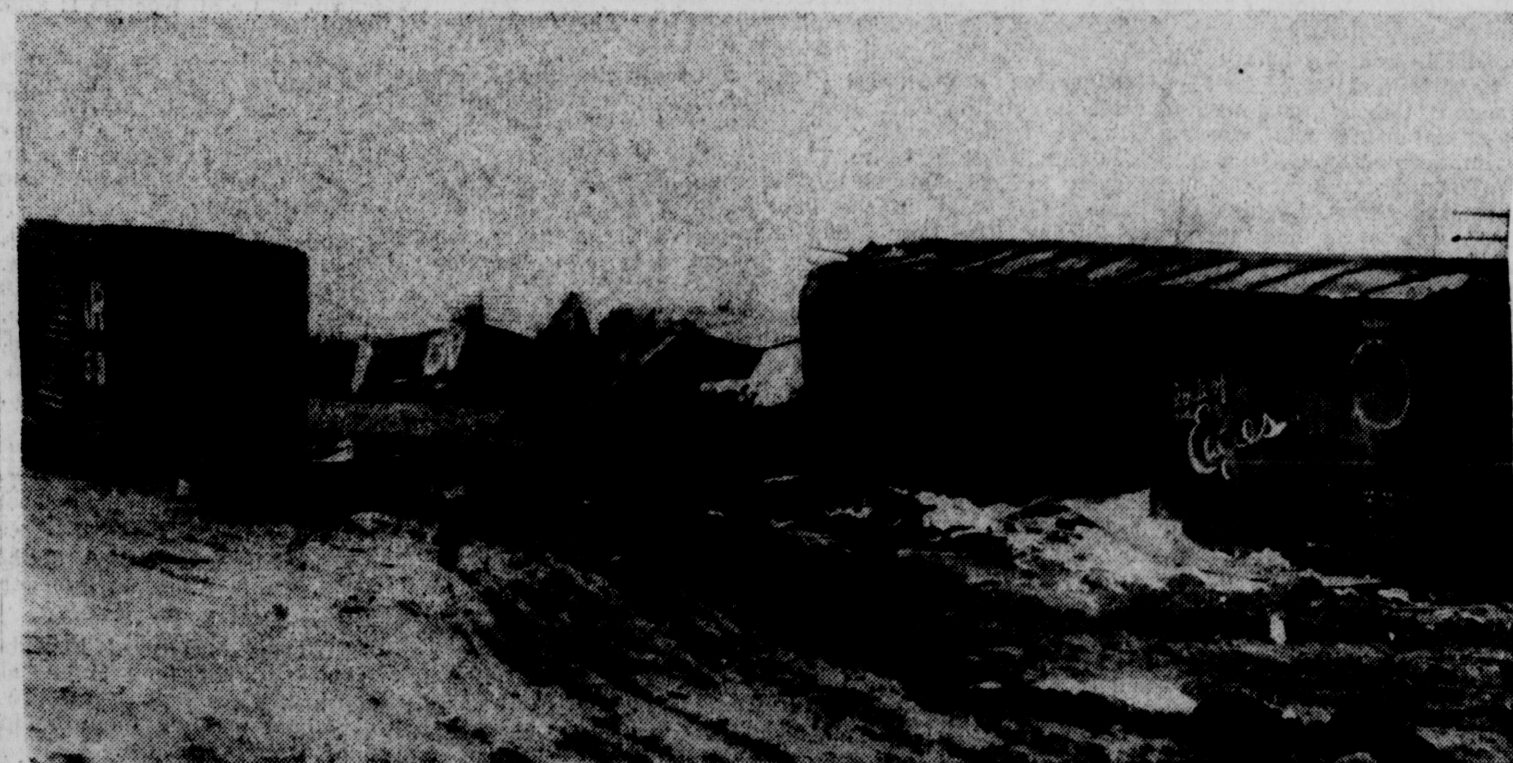

The two defendants have been in Green Haven Prison at Stormville awaiting trial.

The other murder case scheduled on the March calendar for trial is that of 51-year-old Alonzer Trammell, formerly of Foxhall Avenue. He was indicted in the shooting death of 52-year-old Angel Rivera of this city last Aug. 28.

Trammell allegedly shot Rivera during an argument which occurred in a lot off Field Court. The victim of the shooting died a few weeks after he was admitted to Benedictine Hospital. Trammell was a witness for the prosecution in the trial of Douglas.

Nine Appear In New Paltz On Narcotics

NEW PALTZ

Arrested by village police on the morning of March 2 on drugs charges, nine young men appeared Friday night before Town Justice Rexford Schneider who sentenced one youth and adjourned hearings for the other eight.

Kevin Martin, 18, of 10 Mulberry Street, this village, pleaded guilty to criminal possession of dangerous drugs, sixth degree. He was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail.

Hearings for the eight defendants were adjourned by Judge Schneider until April 3. The arrests were made by Police Chief Nicholas Pape and Patrolmen John Savago and Richard Thompson, who were assisted by BCI Investigator Fred Cooper of the Kingston State Police. With the arrests authorities seized a quantity of heroin.

Woman Charged With Murder In Sullivan

LIBERTY, N.Y. (AP) — Clifford Goldsmith, 28, was shot to death late Friday night at the Sulphur Spring home of a woman later arrested and charged with murder, police said.

State Police said Goldsmith, also of Sulphur Spring, was visiting Mrs. Britt Semeria of Mineral Springs Road when he was shot in the head with a .22-caliber pistol.

He was taken first to Community General Hospital in Liberty and transferred to Horton Memorial Hospital in Middletown where he died early today.

Mrs. Semeria is being held without bail at the Sullivan County Jail pending arraignment later today.

Nixon: Space Race On Tight Budget

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon has decided to push forward with a tight-budget space program that could include television-monitored unmanned tours of the planets in this decade, it was learned today.

Putting men on Mars in the 1980s also would be an option under the Nixon formula.

The Florida White House, it was learned, was prepared to announce a presidential decision on his plans for U.S. space exploration in the '70s—the decade marking the nation's 200th birthday.

Last Sept. 17, Nixon unveiled a report by a four-man task force, headed by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, on future alternatives in space pioneering. The President and his staff have been studying the possibilities since then, keeping much in mind their efforts to restrain federal spending in order to curb inflation.

Agnew's group rejected two extreme suggestions—one to abandon future manned space ventures and another to institute a crash program to put a man on Mars in the 1970s. The vice president's recommendation, stated more than five months ago, was to proceed on a middle-ground course that would call for landing a man on Mars in the early 1980s.

All options acceptable to the task force would involve construction and launching of an orbiting space platform and development of a reusable "shuttle bus" between earth and the space station before the Mars venture.

The space shuttle would be ready for use by the country's birthday on July 4, 1976. Nixon has cut back sharply on space spending in his struggle to balance the federal budget. Much of the savings reflected a decision to undertake less ambitious manned exploration of the moon, a planet already twice visited by Americans.

Even in advance of announcing his decision on future space plans, however, the President made it clear—in his latest budget—that space exploration will continue to be a multibillion-dollar program.

Another Arrest In Thefts at IBM

FISHKILL Cross, who released the defendant in his own custody, booked for criminal possession of stolen property.

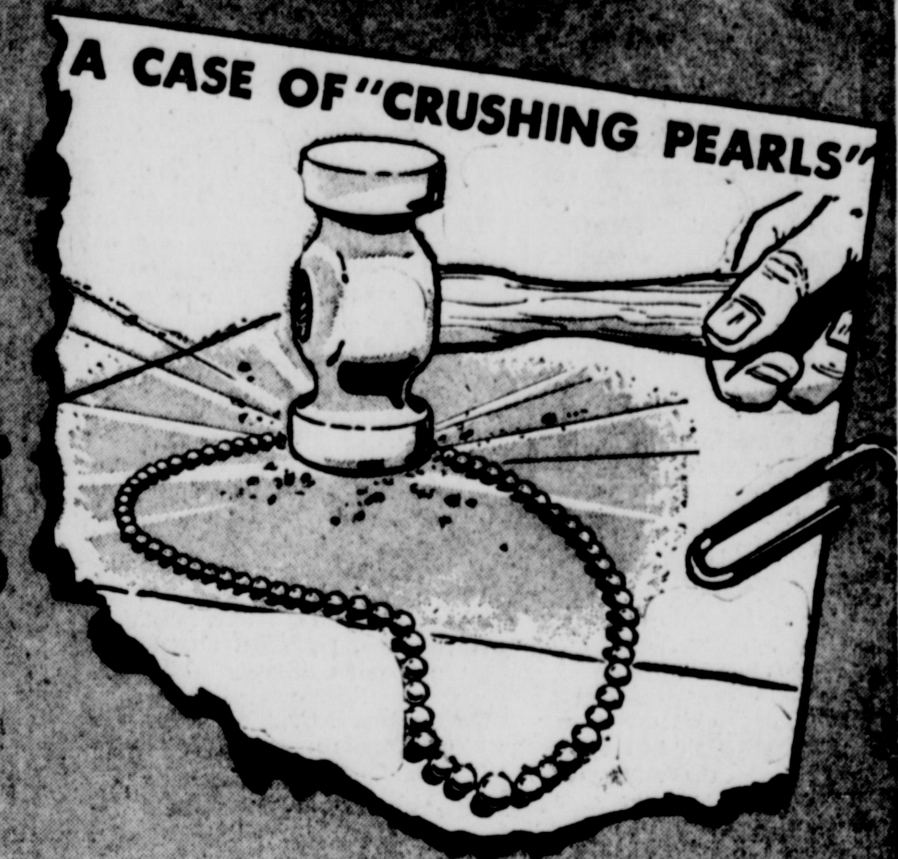

The investigation which was conducted several months under direction of Major C. R. Samson, Captain R. E. Boland and Senior BCI Investigator South William Street, and Lawrence Caine, 39, of Meadow Street, both of Newburgh. Caine, who was employed by the Consolidated Iron and Metal Company of Washington authorities said.

Charges Dismissed

Charges of harassment pending against two men since their arrests on Feb. 26 were dismissed Friday in City Court by Judge Hubert A. Richter. William J. Douglas, 56, both of 68 Lucas Avenue were booked by police on complaint of Harriet Myers of Lucas Avenue.

Understanding Christ on the Lord's Supper

The Lord's Supper is a memorial feast that is designed to bring the Christian worshipper closer to the Lord, not only on the day it is observed, but throughout the week.

There are three spiritual dimensions to this act of Christian worship — all of which must be understood and discerned if the act is to be engaged in meaningfully, scripturally, and acceptably.

The Christian looks backward to the cross. We must be mindful that remission of our sins was made possible through the death and shed blood of Jesus on the cross. Looking backward to the cross and its significance to our salvation is essential. It was Jesus who said that the act was to be done "in remembrance" of him.

The Christian should look inward to his own spiritual needs. To the Christians at Corinth, Paul wrote: "But let a man prove himself, and so let him eat of the bread, and drink of the cup. For he that eateth and drinketh unto himself, if he discern not the body" (1 Corinthians 11:28). Observance of the Lord's Supper brings to our mind our own sinfulness and need for the perpetual cleansing made possible by the blood of Christ (1 John 1:7).

The Christian looks forward to the Lord's return. The Lord's Supper preaches Christ's death. It preaches the New Covenant (Hebrews 9:15-22), and it also preaches his second coming: "For as often as ye eat this bread, and drink the cup, ye proclaim the Lord's death till he come" (1 Corinthians 11:26). Each time the Christian observes the Lord's Supper he is reminded that Christ will return someday to earth and call his disciples to a better world. This act of faith, reminding the Christian of Christ's return, is intended to inspire him to a more sober, more prayerful, more godly, more watchful life from day to day.

Yes, the Lord's Supper is a tremendously vital act of faith to the Christian worshipper. The scriptural observance of this act of worship can have a dynamic effect on our fidelity and devotion to Christ, in whose honor it is observed.

Area Weddings Announced to 'The Freeman'

MRS. RICHARD J. CUSHER
(Lakeside Studio)

Miss Susie Joy Hasenflue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hasenflue of RD 3, Kingston, became the bride of Richard Joseph Cusher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Cusher of High Falls, Sunday, Feb. 22 at Stone Ridge Methodist Church.

The Rev. Wallace Randall officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Arthur Landesman provided traditional wedding selections. White gladioli and poms decorated the altar and white satin bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a gown styled with a scalloped lace bodice and Sabrina neckline. Lace edged the cut-away organza skirt which revealed tiers of lace-edge ruffles. A triangular lace chapel train attached at her shoulders and a pearl-edged lace petal cap held her tiered French illusion veil. She carried a prayerbook covered with white carnations.

Donna Sutton of Kerhonkson was maid of honor in an empire gown styled with a royal blue velvet bodice over a light blue skirt. The gown was fashioned with a scooped neckline and full sleeves and featured appliques of floral braid at the waistline. A matching stylized headpiece held her tulle flirtation veil and she carried a Colonial bouquet of pink carnations.

Attendants were Judy Johnson and Jane Worden, cousin of the bride, both of Kingston. Patricia Cusher, sister of the bridegroom, High Falls, was junior bridesmaid. They wore royal blue velvet gowns. Their headpieces and bouquets were designed identically to that of the honor attendant's.

Cathy Cusher, sister of the bridegroom, and Vicky Hasenflue, sister of the bride, were flower girls. Their gowns were styled similarly to that of the honor attendant's. They wore headpieces of leaves and silk flowers and carried nosegays of pink carnations and pink poms.

Robert Cusher of High Falls served as best man for his brother, Usher, were Barry Beatty, Atwood; Walter Wright, Kingston, cousin of the bride; and Fred Hasenflue, brother of the bride, was ringbearer.

A reception for 125 guests was held at Ray's Village Inn at Rosendale.

For her wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Canada, the bride selected a mint green suit with black accessories.

The bride, a graduate of Rondout Valley Central School and Board of Cooperative Educational Services in New Paltz where she majored in cosmetology, was employed by Lore Hairstylists in Woodstock. Her husband, an alumnus of Rondout Valley Central School and BOCES at New Paltz, is employed by Walter Davenport and Sons, High Falls.

The couple will reside at High Falls.

Avery-Whitney Wedding Announced

Miss Gwen Lee Avery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Avery Sr. of Accord, became the bride of Melvin Arnold Whitney, son of Mrs. Frances Whitney Murdock of Accord and Melvin Whitney of Hackett Center, on Saturday, Feb. 7 at Marbletown Reformed Church, Stone Ridge.

The Rev. Robert Clementz officiated at the ceremony. Mrs. Ernest Schwartz, organist, provided traditional wedding selections. Arrangements of white gladioli, poms and carnations decorated the altar and white bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a princess-style street-length dress of white lace over silk, styled with lace bell sleeves. A velvet bow held her fingertip two-tiered veil of silk illusion net and she carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations.

Mrs. Ruth Smith, aunt of the bride, Lomontville, was matron of honor in a hot pink sleeveless street-length dress of organza accented with silver trim at the neckline and waistline. A pink silk bow with fingertip veil served as her headpiece and she carried a colonial bouquet of pink carnations with pink streamers.

Anthony Mottle of Stone Ridge was best man. Ushers were Edward Smith, uncle of the bride, Lomontville, and Myron Avery Jr., brother of the bride, Accord.

A reception for 90 guests was held at Lomontville Fire Hall.

The bride attended Rondout Valley High School. Her husband is employed at Channel Masters Corporation, Ellenville.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitney will reside in Accord.

Speaker Named for Red Hook Group

RHINEBECK

Mrs. Ruth A. Bruyette of Rhinebeck has been chosen "Woman of the Year" by the Northern Dutchess Business and Professional Women's Club.

A dinner in honor of Mrs. Bruyette will be held at the Beekman Arms Hotel March 17. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Ethel Marshall of Red Hook.

Mrs. Bruyette has been Superintendent of Entries for the Dutchess County Agricultural Association, which sponsors the Rhinebeck Fair, for the past 26 years.

She is a member of the Chancellor Livingston Chapter of the DAR, and has been secretary and treasurer. She served as deputy town clerk from 1952-54 and filled the unexpired term of Joseph Lawrence as town clerk in 1955. She has been president of the Rhinebeck Cemetery Association since 1962 and has been a member since 1949. She is also a member of the Red Hook Women's Republican Club.

Mrs. Bruyette was born in Pine Plains. She taught in this area from 1914 to 1918, and then worked for the government in Washington, D.C. during World War One. She is married to Joseph Bruyette, has two children and six grandchildren.

Fashion Show Sunday

A fashion show for the benefit of Ulster Area Chapter of Muscular Dystrophy will take place Sunday at 1:30 p.m. in Kingston's Municipal Auditorium.

All clothing has been donated by merchants of the area and International Garment Workers Union and will be sold on premises.

The show promises to be a unique presentation of forthcoming fashions for the entire family.

The public is invited to attend. Tickets will be available at the door and refreshments will be served.

Surprise Birthday Dinner Party Held

A surprise birthday dinner party was held for Mrs. Leona Blum, proprietor of the Yacht Club Restaurant, on Sunday, Feb. 22, at the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph William Blum Sr., in Piscataway, N.J.

Among those attending the party were: Mr. and Mrs. Chester L. Blum, and daughters Teddie Lyn and Lee Ann of Cherry Hill, N.J.; Mr. and Mrs. Frederick R. Christiana, and daughters Michelle, Mary Beth, and Susan of Kingston; Joanne and Billy Blum of Piscataway, N.J.; Mrs. Julia Blanchard of Plainfield, N.J.; Mr. and Mrs. William Crowell of Middlesex, N.J.; and Vincent Romano of Bound Brook, N.J.

Organ music was provided for the party by Mary Christiana and Joseph William Blum Jr., daughter and grandson of the honored guest.

To Perform Here

"What's Right With Life Today!"

Service broadcast over WGHQ 920 at 11:00 a.m.

WORLD DAY OF PRAYER took place Friday, March 6, at 1:30 p.m. in the sanctuary of the Old Dutch Church in Kingston. This year's theme for the international organization of Church Women United was "Take Courage." In Kingston, the service spotlighted three women of courage — Queen Esther of the Old Testament; Harriet Tubman, Civil War heroine and a mother of a child with cerebral palsy. Portraying these women were (l-r) Mrs. Louise Greenwald, Mrs. Emma Medley and Mrs. John Bouton. Miss Lucinda Jones, at right, minister of music at Old Dutch Church, was co-chairman of the program. UCCC Offering Cooking Course: Stay Slender Ulster County Community College will offer a non-credit course, "Cooking to Stay Slender," on three Thursday nights running from April 9 to 23, Ronald A. Koster, the Director of Continuing Education, announced today.

The course will meet from 8 to 10 p.m. at the Ulster County Extension Headquarters at John and Crown Streets in Kingston.

The instructor will be Phyllis W. Barlow, an extension home economist with the Ulster County Extension Center.

Topics to be covered will be changing attitudes toward weight control and ways to plan meals so you may eat and stay slim using the same basic menu as the rest of the family. There will be demonstrations of food preparation showing ways to provide good nutrition and cut calories.

Each person attending the course will receive a reference packet regarding important aspects of meal management, good nutrition and recipes for food preparation.

Further information about the course can be obtained by calling the Office of Continuing Education at the College.

Soaring State Budgets

Education and welfare have boosted state budgets to unprecedented heights this year. A recent survey showed 11 states with budgets of more than $1 billion each, and at least another half dozen states had not been included.

Reflecting a growing concern with the cost of cleaning up the environment—a cost no one can measure, so far have we fallen behind in control of air, water and land pollution—this problem is bound to join education and welfare as the three most costly in years to come.

The leading states costwise, are: New York with a $7.25 billion budget, an increase of $1 billion of which $2.6 billion is for education; California with a $6.48 billion budget, a rise of $16 million, of which education claims $2.34 billion and health and welfare $1.5 billion; Ohio with a two-year budget of $6.7 billion, an increase of $1.4 billion; Texas with a $2.9 billion budget for 1970 and $2.96 billion for 1971; Virginia with a budget of $3.8 billion; and North Carolina with a budget of $2.87 billion.

Five more states have budgets of over $1 billion—Florida, Georgia, Wisconsin, Michigan and Massachusetts. And at least a half dozen more, yet to be reported, that will have over $1 billion budgets—Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota, Connecticut and New Jersey.

For a third of the states to be spending more than $1 billion now, for a total of nearly $60 billion; and the other two-thirds spending another $15 billion or more, for an aggregate of around $75 billion; makes the state governments a good second to the federal government as the nation's biggest business institutions. Not to mention the municipal and other local governments, and their growing expenditures.

Education we must have, for it is basic to the quality of life in this country. Health we must have. Welfare is the one field where adjustments can and should be made for the benefit both of clients and taxpayers. For the more self-reliant and, therefore, better paid, we all become, the more of us there are to pay the mounting taxes.

Arm Twisting for Housing

A campaign to persuade large investors—banks, insurance companies, and pension funds—to put more of their money in housing is the first method the Government has undertaken to raise mortgage money to spur housing. If that fails, Secretary George Romney of the Department of Housing and Urban Development is ready to do some arm twisting to get it.

Romney told the House Banking and Currency Committee that by May 1, it should be clear what the large investors are willing to do. The insurance companies are taking an internal survey for their future investment intentions. The American Bankers Association and the Mortgage Bankers Association have proposed requests to banks for voluntary increases in their lending for housing. Pension funds have indicated they would cooperate without making any firm commitments.

"If we don't get a flow of funds on a voluntary basis," Romney told the committee, "you're going to have to do it on some other basis." Apparently, he hopes that the industry will come through before compulsory legislation is passed.

One of the many bills the committee is considering would require that banks, insurance companies, and pension funds invest a fixed part of their funds in housing. Anything short of that, lacking voluntary commitments, would falter in the present high interest market. Romney would allow two rates for FHA and Veterans mortgages. One would be a free rate, no ceiling; the other with a fixed ceiling but with discounts and points to sweeten it.

The administration and Congress are pressing together for a solution. But, as Romney told the committee, tight credit has already severely wounded the housing market for 1970. Congress has a lot of time to make up and should speed action.

Where Are the Famines?

The problem of the 1970s is not hunger, but the creation of jobs for vast pools of unused and under-used labor. With this bold statement, Lester R. Brown, one-time adviser to the Secretary of Agriculture, demolishes the fear of a few years ago that poor countries faced hunger and famine. Instead, he says they may be self-sufficient and have food to export sooner than we know.

What has brought about the turnaround, according to Brown, who described his thesis in a new book, "Seeds of Change. The Green Revolution and Development in the 1970s" is high yielding cereal seeds developed and promoted by American enterprise. First to benefit generally are India and Pakistan, which together contain more than one-fifth of the people on earth.

Brown is biased. He is a senior fellow at the Overseas Development Council, backed by global corporations which have an interest in triggering an agricultural revolution with their products and services. Granting that, however, we see no reason to doubt Brown's report, especially as it is certified by Eugene Black, former head of the World Bank, and by Robert McNamara, the present head. They are on the firing line of development of poor countries and they ought to know.

... and if Your Family Grows, You Can Always Borrow Some More Money and Build an Extension!"

Henry J. Taylor Says The Bay of Pigs Debacle

I flew over the Bay of Pigs recently in a flight across Cuba. There another of history's "if only's" creeps in—surely the most fateful, incredibly fateful, "if only" in the history of the United States.

Far below the plane the waves were rolling into the beach, carrying their bright mercury of the sea under a scudding three-quarters moon. It was an eerie and awful feeling to realize that there, exactly down there at this pinpoint place, the U.S. debacle not only shattered our ancient Monroe Doctrine forever, it led directly to our combat horrors in Vietnam.

For years this link between the spot below and Vietnam was brushed under the rug. But history will not forget it.

President Kennedy's tenure was so fleeting, his words and acts so contradictory, and his dastardly assassination so ghastly that charitable judgments must suffice. But history's long-range evaluation of his stewardship of the United States will start with the Bay of Pigs and the fact that Cuba—the island we swore to defend—remains a Soviet bastion fringed with fire to this very day and end with our Vietnam entrapment.

For the late President's foreign policy was not a policy; it was a catastrophe, a series of catastrophes, a series of "if only's"—under the sheen that will be forgotten entirely.

Within a year and half after the Bay of Pigs Russia had been so encouraged that she placed her troops and missiles in Cuba. This required President Kennedy to "confront" the U.S.S.R. He ordered the Cuban blockade, inexplicably lifted it within less than 30 days and also inexplicably did not put the blockade back when the Soviet defaulted on the on-site inspection he demanded.

All over Latin America Castro's subversion rose like a black gas and within another year this was so damaging that President Kennedy was forced to make a trip and tell protesting leaders in the Southern Hemisphere that there was nothing he could do to help it. Mr. Kennedy had solemnly pledged: Communism is not negotiable in the Western Hemisphere. Finally, he could only say: "It's unfortunate that Cuba went Communist."

Six elected Latin-American governments promptly fell, including Dr. Juan Bosch's Dominican Republic government, and the die was cast for the Dominican intervention requirement President Johnson inherited.

Meanwhile, the fateful moon lit spot below the plane extended its shadow into Southeast Asia as well.

Such intimate Kennedy chroniclers as Theodore C. Sorensen agree that after the Bay of Pigs debacle President Kennedy searched for something to distract our public's mind and the embarrassed President contrived for that purpose a glamorous trip abroad.

The headlines would be about a glittering banquet of Versailles, a reception at Buckingham Palace, a Vienna visit—everything except Cuba. Cables were rushed to a totally surprised De Gaulle, Queen of England and even Nikita Khrushchev. Mrs. Kennedy would accompany the President. The press corps left Washington in droves.

Editorials throughout our country commented that the Bay of Pigs fiasco having driven U.S. prestige so low, this was obviously the wrong moment for Mr. Kennedy to meet Khrushchev. They said all was sure to get worse as a result, and it did. But how could they dream that the worse would include President Kennedy trapping the United States in Vietnam?

James Reston of The New York Times was in Vienna. He states: "A few minutes after President Kennedy left Khrushchev he told me that apparently Khrushchev had decided that 'anybody stupid enough to get involved in that situation (the Bay of Pigs) was immature, and anybody who didn't see it through was timid and, therefore, could be bullied!'"

Reston says President Kennedy then ordered the first American combat troops (16,000) into Vietnam as a face-saving operation to offset Khrushchev's opinion of him in his Bay of Pigs performance, even though this violated all his repeated promises not to allow the United States to fight another Asian land war.

All was quiet below the plane. The shore was abandoned. There was only one small light, very faint, at the far curve of the Bahia de Cochinos. There were not even hulks on the chain of shoals. But our great United States or the free world will never again be the same.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

William Armstrong is dead at 48. He worked the mutual windows at the race tracks. He leaves a wife, Imelda, a small voluptuous woman with dark hair and an iron mind, parents who have Scottish burrs, a sister Kathy, a dog named Dinty, and a trailer which is paid for.

The earth will continue its slow eastward spin toward dawn. Nothing will slow down. He was a man five ten with prematurely white hair, a busted nose which came from talking when he should have been listening, and a zest for life which caused his spirit to soar in sensuality and, at times, dropped his soul down a sewer.

He was my friend. Any man is lucky to have three or four real friends, and I was lucky to have Armstrong. Whenever he walked into a room, a radiance of life emanated from the faces of all who were present. Once, on my boat, we passed an enormously stout woman fishing from a canal bank under a coolie hat. "Hell-lo Gorgeous!" Bill yelled.

I asked him why he said it. "If I was a woman that fat and old," he said, "I would want some man—any man—to call me gorgeous just once." He was that kind of guy. He drank too much and you could tell because his kisser put on a smile that wouldn't erase.

He never had a child, so he played with everybody else's. Bill could get on the floor with little ones and argue with them about a game on an eyeball-to-eyeball basis. He also had a weird code. Armstrong seldom earned more than a hundred a week, but he believed that he should "duke" a waiter five dollars—even when it was the final five.

He had enormous loves. Before he married, he was a bartender and a pool shark and he could lose a match by a point or two before doubling or tripling the bet. I have seen him flirt with a lady at a bar and, after a few drinks, borrow her car keys so that he could go visit his real love.

He was a tough alley fighter, but he never enjoyed it. Someone had to push him. When he wanted to close a subject, he held his hands out palms down and said: "End of play." In my old house in Sea Bright, N.J., he tended bar at weekend parties, drank twice as much as anyone else, and, if an argument started between husband and wife, he would look at the husband, shake his head from side to side, and murmur: "She's beautiful. A good man can forgive beauty anything."

He smoked unfiltered cigarettes, lighting the live one from the dying, and he could talk books like a critic. He read non-fiction only, but he devoured them by the dozen, sometimes sitting in one end of his trailer in his sox, unable to stop until the dirty gray dawn came up over Atlantic City.

He dressed well, even when he had to buy clothes on the time payment plan. Bill could discuss medicine, thermodynamics, the billion wonders of this world and the one which might, or might not be waiting on the far side of the long sleep. He was a sports fisherman and could play a sail or a wahoo as though he was doing an organ solo.

At the race track, he had a weakness for tips on winners, and none of them was any good, but Armstrong listened to the trainers, punched out a few tickets for himself, and, on the rare occasions when he won a bundle, he would split it with his little Mel, or they would sit and drink it.

Once, at a funeral, Mel couldn't park a car in an empty space. "Gimme that wheel!" he said petulantly, and she walked away in the snow. He zoomed the gas pedal twice. The car was in gear and he hit six parked cars, three owned by priests who were inside saying the rosary.

Last autumn he phoned. "Pal," he said, "I got news. I went up to Monmouth Medical Center and I got big casino." My tongue died. "One cancer is as big as a golf ball in the right lung; a small one is in a lymph node over the left lung. Now this is a rap I got to beat."

Every two weeks, he phoned. The cobalt treatments were lousy, but the results were terrific. The golf ball had disappeared and the lymph node looked like a small dot. "I'm coming down to see that new boat of yours," he shouted. "I got a couple of weeks off just to go fishing." I said sure.

The calls kept coming. Last week I phoned Bill in the hospital and he said: "The cancer is all gone, but this will kill you. I got a big shiny belly like I'm nine months overdue. Listen, Pal, if Mel won't come down to your house next week, I'm coming alone."

At midnight he was in a coma. "I got to see Jim's boat," he moaned and then he said: "Oh, God. Oh, Jesus Christ."

In ten minutes, Bill was off to see Him...

Commission Splits on Plan To Outlaw Most Pistols

WASHINGTON—A drastic proposal for reducing armed crimes by outlawing 90 per cent of the privately owned pistols in America has split the distinguished National Commission on Reform of Criminal Laws.

The recommendation was made by Frank Zimring, a tough, young University of Chicago professor, in a confidential, 40-page report to the 12-man Commission. It was vigorously opposed by Sen. Roman Hruska, R-Neb., and Rep. Dick Poff, R-Va., who talk a lot about "law and order" but fight gun controls.

The Commission is laboring in secret to overhaul the chaotic federal criminal laws. Professor Zimring, an expert on gun controls, was hired as a consultant over Hruska's gruff opposition.

He presented his findings, based on hundreds of hours of research, at a secret session last fall. Speaking eloquently, he urged that only drastic action could halt the carnage and terror that pistols have inflicted upon America.

He pointed out that handguns have no real sporting importance. Although they constitute only a quarter of all guns, they cause three-quarters of gun violence. For instance, they kill five times more often than knives.

Forced Pistol Purchase

"We must dry up the supply," the young professor pleaded. "There is no other way." A new law is urgently needed, he said, to confiscate by forced purchase 90 per cent of the nation's pistols. Those who could prove a need, he suggested, should be licensed. He recommended that even rifle and shotgun owners should be required to carry identification cards.

Poff insisted that it wasn't necessary to confiscate handguns, that extra penalties for crimes committed with firearms would stem the slaughter of the innocents.

"The courts aren't using the penalties they have now," said Zimring.

As he wound up his appeal, Sen. Hruska strode into the room and glared angrily at Zimring.

"It's disrespectful to have an advocate as a Commission consultant," he growled at the professor.

There was an awkward pause. Then Zimring responded to the rude remark by stating politely that he didn't want to force his proposal down anyone's throat.

At a subsequent meeting, the Commission was so hotly divided over Zimring's pistol plan that no agreement could be reached. A confidential staff report, made available to this column, concluded: "Members of our Commission have expressed various views" on the gun plan, therefore the commission was "setting aside that issue."

Note: This column's request for a copy of Zimring's report brought a written response from the Commission that "we cannot accede to your request." From unofficial sources, however, we learned what the report advocates. The 40 pages of stark findings are based on Zimring's earlier work for the National Violence Commission. He collaborated with George Newton, director of the Gun Task Force, and a staff of nine.

Epileptic to Vietnam
The Army has packed off to Vietnam a 20-year-old youth with epilepsy and a history of polio.

Specialist 4 Carlos Cobos of Roswell, N.M., was hustled aboard a flight to Vietnam on the same day that Sen. Joseph Montoya, D-N.M., was making his final appeal to the Army not to order him there.

Except for the Senator's pleas, the brass would have sent him to the front as a combat truck driver. Montoya still fears that despite the Army's promise to change Cobos' military specialty from combat truck driver to clerk, he could be transferred to a frontline company in a pinch.

This column has now obtained official Army reports which confirm that Fort Lewis, Wash., was fully aware of the young enlisted man's condition when he was ordered to Vietnam.

States a report, based on his medical records:

"Specialist Cobos arrived at this station on Dec. 16, 1969 and was placed on medical hold in connection with his medical condition (epilepsy). Specialist Cobos was examined by medical authorities... and it was determined that he is deployable to the Republic of Vietnam."

Prodded by Montoya, the Army changed his military specialty, to a "card and tape writer." The report admits he "was given a medical profile for epilepsy which was not compatible with" driving a light truck under fire.

This is an understatement. Cobos' seizures come without warning and a blackout behind the wheel of a truck full of his comrades could kill both him and his fellow GIs.

Cobos enlisted even though his parents thought the Army would never take him. He was sent to Germany where he re-enlisted. He is under daily medication to control the epilepsy.

NOTE: The Army also has been training youths deaf in one ear for Vietnam combat service. Montoya has been able to block two such possible transfers. In the case of one, Michael P. Brown, of Albuquerque, the Army medical reports admit he is totally deaf in one ear. The report says he should not be given duties involving "exposure to loud noises." Montoya wonders what he is doing in the Army at all.

"If this happened to these boys, it is also happening to many other boys across the land," the New Mexico Senator warned.

'Shook' by Pressures, O'Brien Accepts Draft by Democrats

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) —

Only minutes before the final telephone call he took just past 1 p. m. on March 3 from two hard-pressed members of the Democratic National Committee, Lawrence O'Brien still hung in agonizing indecision on whether or not to take the chairmanship again. When that call came from Col. Jacob Arvey of Illinois and Robert Strauss of Texas, O'Brien read them the one-sentence statement which had been urged upon him by a chief aide—saying he would accept a draft by the full committee for another term as chairman.

This ended one of the most incredible ordeals in the much-sought-after O'Brien's crowded political life. Some of the events in that 24-hour period are badly tangled, and one or two aspects known to me cannot yet be divulged.

The significant thing is that in this ordeal O'Brien got from many key Democrats around the nation the kind of deeply committed support which he felt was lacking when, at midday Feb. 25, he first notified Hubert Humphrey from California he was turning down the former vice president's offer of the chairmanship.

Phase Two began for O'Brien about 1:20 p. m. on March 2 as he was walking out of his office in New York to go to lunch. A secretary summoned him back to take a three-way call from Arvey, Strauss and Stephen Reinhardt of California—all members of the DNC's executive committee.

They and seven others on that committee had spent a grueling morning trying to agree on a chairman in place of O'Brien, hashing over the state, getting nowhere. At Reinhardt's suggestion, they had decided on another appeal to O'Brien.

He called their attention to his rejection statement of Feb. 26 and again uttered a flat "No."

About an hour later, Arvey alone called O'Brien again and pressed his appeal. On this occasion, O'Brien read to Arvey a carefully prepared two-sentence statement which stressed that he had originally rejected the job because he saw no "clear consensus" in the party for him, and added that "nothing has happened" since to change that view. Arvey hung up abruptly after getting a re-read of that last part.

Next, Humphrey, in a New York hotel but about to depart for Philadelphia to make a speech, called O'Brien. He sounded depressed over the committee's difficulties and the lack of wide backing for his own second chairmanship choice, former Indiana Gov. Matthew Welsh.

O'Brien gave Humphrey his first word of the new developments. Shortly afterwards, Arvey reached Humphrey to inform him of the appeals to O'Brien. (Around 6 p. m., Humphrey in Philadelphia talked with O'Brien again and urged him on afresh.)

Arvey much earlier had telephoned the former chairman a third time to notify him that the executive committee by unanimous vote had invited O'Brien to accept. O'Brien, though saying he was "flattered," still demurred. He was asked first to think about it for an hour, then to "sleep on it," finally to take "24 hours." Once more, Arvey hung up abruptly.

Public word of the executive committee's vote for O'Brien opened the flood gates in New York. Between mid-afternoon March 2 and the time on March 3 when he said he would accept a draft, some 200 calls and countless telegrams poured into his office.

Many were from Democrats who had not called him in his pre-February 26 review of the Humphrey offer. Some who spoke he had not heard from in more than a year. A handful of calls came from important money-raisers who had been strangely silent in the earlier review.

None of these Monday calls, which were shut off at 1 a. m., was taken by O'Brien himself. But the morning of March 3 he personally talked to several important callers and was still doing this when Arvey and Strauss began their final series of three or four high-pressure calls demanding his decision. At one point, O'Brien said to Arvey: "I'm shook."

Heavily pressed, moved by the evident proofs of a deeper, wider party consensus from earnest-sounding advocates, O'Brien by a very close margin yielded and said he would serve.

BERRY'S WORLD

"I think it's only fair to tell you, me am—he's roted 'X'!"

TEEN SCENE—Environment Matter of Life, Death

By LEI

When did natural resources suddenly stop being words in your school social studies class and become realities? Was it last summer when your favorite splashing place was closed by pollution? Was it this winter when city grime turned your white maxi pearl grey in two weeks? Was it the dying photo of an oil-filled duck in the newspaper or finding a record trout—killed by contaminants in a once-secluded stream? Or was it just that your sweetheart suffered from a stuck needle on the subject, and talked about nothing else for weeks?

Teen-age college and high-school students are suddenly discovering that destruction of our natural resources affects us all—not in a far-fetched manner, but very directly. Many are appalled at the world future generations will face—polluted, contaminated, exterminated, and wasted. Often, laws exist to curb the abuses, and through apathy, are never used. With sympathetic adult help these are organizing a movement that has attracted not only attention, but action, from adults.

This movement to protect our environment is preparing for the first big demonstration of its power, which will take place across the country on April 22. Termed "The Environmental Teach-In", this demonstration was at first intended as a college venture, but high school students lost no time in getting into the act. Hopefully, in schools and colleges across the nation, April 22 will be a day devoted to speeches, demonstrations, and seminars concerning how we can best conserve our natural resources on a local and national level.

The "Environment" or "Earth Day", as it is becoming known, is being organized on a school-by-school basis. Founding, promoting, and organizing the project is Congressman Richard L. Ottinger. As early as last December, his office was mailing out newsletters, reports, and questionnaires, organizing the action. Many campuses started taking immediate action then, but there is still time, and more schools are becoming involved by the week.

Perhaps a college or high school near you already plans to participate. If so, they will welcome participation by members of your school. At every such school there is one student in charge of the activities, and he or she needs all the help available. If you can't find an Earth Day movement in your vicinity, and you're really serious about little things like breathing fresh air and drinking pure water, maybe you'll want to start one.

Congressman Ottinger's office, at 129 Cannon House Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20515 will be glad to send you copies of the movement's lively newspaper, "Report of the Environment" and specific suggestions for organizing activities. At one school, students rallied to the protection of an ancient oak about to be sacrificed for a parking lot—and won their point!

In other schools, school clubs organize fund-raising activities for an established conservation organization, or classes for the day are oriented around natural resources.

The movement newsletter is glad to publish the name of those in charge at your school, and if there is an interesting success story connected with your efforts to protect the natural environment, report on it, and the newsletter will probably print it.

Your participation can be as large or small, personal or general as you wish—there is so much to be done that even the smallest contribution helps. Area conservationists will probably be more than glad to help a group from your school pinpoint action needed in your area.

Hopefully, the environment will become part of your life. While you've read this, somewhere, dozens of fish have silently died from insecticide residue in their stream. A centuries-old redwood has fallen before a brand-new chain saw. And a gum wrapper thrown from a car blows down the roadside . . .

And its the world we'll have to live in that they're missing . . .

TROUBLE SHOOTERS—Alfred Monteleone (R) and Jerry Wilkie of Walkill check out an auto ignition system with instructor Rudolph Brodsky at auto mechanics shop run by BOCES. Auto mechanic students from schools across the country—including a team from Ulster County BOCES—are entering the 22nd annual Plymouth Trouble Shooting Contest, according to Michael Aronica, director of vocational education, Ulster County BOCES. All 10 students in BOCES auto mechanics class are eligible for their school's trouble shooting team. Two auto mechanic students will be selected for the team through intra-class competition by Rudolph W. Brodsky, the auto shop instructor, to represent BOCES at the local Trouble Shooting Contest to be held May 9, 1970 at Valley Stream, L. I. The contest consists of two competitions: a written exam for each participating student which will count as 30 per cent of a team's final score, and a mechanical challenge worth 70 per cent. In the mechanical competition, students work on new cars supplied by local Plymouth dealers who sponsor the event. The boys race the clock and each other to find and fix several identical malfunctions purposely placed under the hoods of the cars by Plymouth engineers. The Valley Stream contest is one of about 100 local events being held across the country this spring. The winning team and its instructor earn an expense-paid trip to the National Trouble Shooting Finals, June 15, 16 and 17 in Indianapolis at the famed "500" Speedway. Contestants are competing for more than $25,000 worth of scholarships and awards. Purpose of the Plymouth Trouble Shooting program is to recognize and honor outstanding auto mechanic students and to encourage them to seek a rewarding career as an automobile mechanic.

Summer Science Program Entering Its 17th Year

ALBANY—A summer scientific education program, pioneered by the State Health Department four years before Sputnik will enter its 17th year this June. Dr. Hollis S. Ingraham, state health commissioner, said today in announcing receipt of a federal grant.

The program enables high school pupils, college under-graduates, three graduate students, three medical students, two high school teachers and six college faculty members. Each participant is expected to devote at least 40 hours a week to program activities. Each attends lectures, takes part in day and evening seminars, sees scientific films and writes weekly critiques of one or more lectures attended. At Roswell Park, the participants work among employees including about 150 physicians, 150 PhDs and 500 assisting scientific workers. The program has three goals: to expose participants to an atmosphere of intensive research, to foster scientific creativity and to aid in career planning.

The program shows participants the importance of research and helps them develop skills, habits and attitudes useful in scientific investigation. It provides high school and college teachers with new ideas and techniques for teaching and supplements their theoretical knowledge with practical experience.

Every research project in the program is chosen in accordance with the particular participant's abilities and interests, subject to approval of the program director. Each participant is assigned at least one senior staff investigator working in the project field.

In the program, evaluation of the individual participants' accomplishments and the projects themselves is a continuous process. The research is intended to be primarily an educational experience rather than a form of summer employment. However, funds are available to cover expenses such as lodging and transportation.

The summer program was established by the State Health Department in 1954 to help meet increasing needs for scientific manpower. It began receiving federal grants after the first Russian satellite was orbited in 1958 and the need to stimulate scientific study became nationally recognized.

The federal grants are awarded through Health Research Inc., a non-profit corporation established by the Department to administer research grants. The corporation's division headquarters are at Albany and at Roswell Park Memorial Institute.

Among comments on the program is this statement by a 1969 participant: "The program was of tremendous value to me—in terms of general exposure to distinguished scientists and their work as well as constant exposure to the scientific method. I have designed many experiments and I have learned to analyze my results critically. For these reasons, I would call the summer program an unqualified success."

Further information on the 1970 program may be obtained from Dr. Mirand, whose address at Roswell Park Memorial Institute is 666 Elm Street, Buffalo, N.Y. 14203. Completed applications for this year's program must be received by Dr. Mirand by March 2.

Composer Williams—A Man of Multiple Talents

SEATTLE (AP) — Unless you've got multiple-split vision, don't ever ask, "Will the real Mason Williams please stand up?"

Williams is that bearded, open-shirted, bejaunted guitarist camped on a stool at center stage. He's that clean-shaven, Brooks Brothers-clad adoration on the record cover: he's the sun-glassed and wavy-haired gazer at the world's largest sunflower—which he created. He's the erstwhile $50,000-a-year writer for the Smothers brothers; the author of several books; and a Grammy-winning composer of music.

Williams is his own work of art—a composition, an incredible photograph, a philosophy trying to find words to explain itself to a confused—and confusing—world.

Perhaps the closest the public—or anyone—can come to knowing the real Mason Williams is to see him and listen to him in his present concert form.

Even then, most likely, he can only be known in his 31-year-old, 1970 form.

"I don't know" is the phrase that recurs as he does his contemporary version of Will Rogers—treating his audience to a little song, a little jest, a little philosophy.

The songs include "Classical Gas," an instrumental he composed and played and for which he won three Grammys—top accolade of the recording world—and another, newer tune, which he calls "Jose's Song."

"At the dinner where they handed out the Grammy awards, Jose Feliciano asked me to write him a song, I said 'Sure,' and I wrote one and sent it over," said Williams.

"Coupla months later, I called and asked what they planned to do with it. His people said, 'Oh, there's been no decision yet,' and so I guess Jose can learn the words from my record. Here's the song—I call it Jose's Song. That's because it's Jose's song."

He's also the butt of some of his own jokes—such as describing the $5,000 he spent to make a film of the world's largest sunflower. He used the sun as the center—and hired a skywriting plane to inscribe the petals and stem.

"Jesus was perfect—and he preached charity. Instead of charity in America, we've got competition. Competition is great for business, but it's lousy for people."

"The churches have missed it (charity)—except maybe the Gideons—they give their religion away."

"We're a nation of consumers, not people."

Williams says he won't work again on television—despite the high pay and the luster it has given his growing popularity.

"The good television is gone—the 'Omnibus' program—Ernie Kovacs... the 'Colgate Comedy Hour'."

"Lately there's no quality—the sponsors don't want it," he says.

And again, the humor with a jab:

"When I was in Paris, I spent a lot of time looking into the Seine. You know, French pollution is different from ours. Someday they'll catch up... I hope."

He performs in front of a 36-foot backdrop—a photograph he did of a Greyhound bus.

His next move? "My only goal," he said "is that sometime I'm going to put down my way of creativity so it can be shared."

"I'm the work of art. 'People mistake that as ego. 'But I really love to lend myself to the arts and do the best I can."

"I'm trying to be an artist."

His comedy is offhand and mischievous and pointed. His stage poems are humorously witty.

"Here's a couple poems I wrote for some of the loveliest people in the world—those people who kick dogs and suck toads and such," he tells the audience. And he recites the compositions about kicking dogs and sucking toads—and such.

"But I forgot you can't take a picture of the sun like that, so I guess I'm about the only one who saw that sunflower."

CYO Teens Seminar on Narcotics

SAUGERTIES

The Ulster County Federation of CYO Teen Clubs will hold a symposium on narcotics, Friday, March 13 at St. Mary of the Snow Hall in Saugerties beginning at 7:30 p.m.

All children and parents are invited to hear experts from the Renaissance Rehabilitation Center in Ellenville speak on the subject of narcotics and addiction. Many of the experts are former addicts who have undergone rehabilitation.

There will be separate sessions held for parents and children. There is no admission charge.

Jr. Achievement Progress Noted

KINGSTON

To expose high school students to business on a miniature scale for a period of one year through the medium of an organized corporation is the purpose of Junior Achievement. This was explained to the Kingston Kiwanis Club by James Davis of Saugerties, executive vice president of the movement in Kingston.

Introducing the concept of Junior Achievement locally, Davis stated that three of its corporations have been in existence for a year, that 20 junior and senior high school students and three adult advisors are involved, that it operates on the student's time for a period of one hour per week, and that the corporations are located on the second floor of the former School No. 2 building.

Exposure to the business world comes to the participating students through supervising, making, and selling of their corporation's products. Davis said that "students today are more adult than they were 20 years ago," and Junior Achievement endeavors to show them "that business is challenging and exciting."

Organized business in the area have helped the Junior Achievement program, which in itself is a "non-profit educational organization."

Davis explained that two of the current corporations have operated at a profit while business problems, such as occur in actual businesses, proved a deterrent to the third corporation. He stated that the next school year will probably find five corporations organized, and applications for student participation for next year indicate that the Junior Achievement program locally is a successful venture.

PROJECT HOPE—Kim Brodhead takes her turn at the fish tank during a winter carnival last weekend at Kingston High for Project Hope. The USS Hope is a hospital ship that visits various underprivileged foreign countries dispensing medical aid and education. Shown with Kim are Doug Staley, Jay Weiss, Roy Felipe and Jackie DeWitt. Saturday night, March 14, a concert will be held at the Kate Walton Field House to raise funds for Project Hope. Groups will include Billy Batsen and Holly Moses, Ellen McLwaine and Fear Itself and a number of Woodstock groups. Tickets are available from Abram's Music Store or at the door and are selling for $2.00.

Oneonta Swimmers Take Early Lead

TOURNAMENT-BOUND—Captains of St. Joseph's basketball teams which will compete in the Father Mooney Memorial Tournament at Mahopac (L-R), Greg Rafferty, Small Fry; Co-Captains John Glenn and Rick Peruso of the Junior Varsity; Jim Gallagher, Varsity. The tournament at Mahopac is one of the largest schoolboy competitions in the East. It is run in three divisions of six teams each and attracts entries from Ulster, Rockland, Orange, Dutchess, Putnam and Westchester counties. St. Joseph's three teams have a combined record of 47 wins and 8 losses in CYO and independent games.

By MORT LAFFIN

NEW PALTZ
Oneonta's swim team, paced by a record breaking performance by the 400 yard freestyle relay team, roared into first place with a total of 154 points in the first round of preliminaries and finals of the State University of New York Athletic Conference Swimming and Diving Championships staged Friday at Elting Gym pool on the New Paltz College campus.

Should the leaders continue on in today's events and win the title, it would mark the fourth straight victory for Oneonta in the state-wide competition and it would also be the fifth title in the past six years for the defending champs.

Today's events will feature the gruelling 1650-yard freestyle, 100-yard freestyle, 100-yard breaststroke, 100-yard butterfly, 50-yard freestyle, 200-yard individual medley, 400-yard medley relay and the final round of the one-meter diving event. Preliminaries started at 9:30 a.m., with the finals scheduled for some time around 3:30 p.m.

Buffalo Second

Buffalo State's squad, second with 122 points, appears to be the only team that would have a chance to catch the leaders. Cortland is a distant third with 85 points, while the host team, New Paltz, is in eighth position with 38 points and will be looking to do better in today's sprint events.

Oneonta's relay team smashed the SUNYAC record of 3:24.8 and the New Paltz pool mark of 3:32.5, posting a winning time of 3:24.4. The defending champs owned the previous records.

Keith Benjamin, complete with "Mohawk" hairdo, and John Stam, swam the third and fourth legs of the relay to edge Plattsburgh's Paul Engert and Grant Inman. Plattsburgh's time of 3:26.9 was also better than the pool record, but not good enough for the win as Benjamin and Stam took a slight margin, with Stam opening up the lead on the final turn for home.

Buffalo's squad finished third with the fine time of 3:27.0, while the New Paltz team of Bob Rose, Rick Gilliam, Mike Janoska and Joe Brethel were right behind at 3:30.5.

Records Set

Three other records, including one set in the preliminaries, were broken in the finals and more are expected to go by the boards today.

Bob Stefferson of Cortland and Randy Magin of Oneonta tied with pool record performances in the preliminaries of the 200-yard backstroke, only to have Magin edge Stefferson in the finals with another record-setting.

The two boys posted identical times in the prelims, at 2:10.2. However, the finals were a slightly different story as Magin gained on his opponent with a mighty kick off the wall in the final turn, breaking the previous mark with a 2:08 finish. Stefferson was right behind at 2:08.8, while John Chapin of Fredonia was apparently third at 2:10.

Chapin was later disqualified for a lane infraction and third place went to George Stam of Oneonta with a time of 2:12.8. Other record set were by Russell Janneck in the prelims of the 200-yard butterfly at 2:10.0, and by Bob Kissinger of Buffalo in the finals of the 200-yard freestyle. Kissinger hit the wall in 1:52.8, bettering the old mark of 1:53.1. All records, other than the relay, are pool marks at New Paltz.

Wayne Ercoline paced the host team with a win in the consolation round of the 200-yard breaststroke. Ercoline turned in a time of 2:29.5, good enough for a seventh place in the overall standings.

Mike Janoska picked up a third place in the 500-yard freestyle consolation for a ninth place finish and came in fourth in the 200-yard freestyle consolation for a tenth place. Harvey Cohen finished fifth in the consolation round of the 200-yard butterfly for an eleventh overall.

New Paltz Coach and Meet Director, Art Stockin, was pleased with the way the meet was progressing, but felt that his team could do better.

"The boys in this conference are really great. It's come a long way," he said. "However, we should be doing better. Our relay was very good and I look for us to do better in the sprints. Nobody will touch Oneonta," he concluded.

Coleman Eliminated

The Statesmen of John A. School Tournament Friday night at St. Joseph's Academy eliminated in the qualifying round of the Small Catholic

The game, a rough-and-tumble affair on a 40 foot by 60 foot court, according to Coleman Coach Bill DuBois, saw the Senators dumped from the single-game elimination event. Both teams played pressing zone defenses, but the home-court advantage for the winners told the tale as they put four men in double figures. The Kingston quintet finished the season with a 12-7 record.

Guy Lewis was high man for the winners with 22 points as he hit driving layups all around the basket. Stan Jenkins was right behind with 17 as he went 8-for-10 from the head of the key.

Craig Renn was the leading scorer and rebounder for the losers with 18 points and 15 rebounds. Pat Harder chipped in with 15 markers and 10 rebounds but the visitors couldn't overcome the court disadvantage and fell behind to stay, 15-7, at the end of the first period.

Kickers Face Greeks In Last Road Contest

MORGAN HILL
Kingston Sport Club Kickers Sunday face their hardest German-American Soccer Association test ever, when they travel to Gaelic Park in the Bronx to take on the all-powerful Greek-Americans.

The contest concludes the 1969-70 road schedule for the Kickers, who then complete their Major Division schedule with home games on March 15 and March 22 at Oehler's Mountain Lodge.

The KSC reserves play at 1:15, with the main attraction at 3 p.m.

Competing against professionals, the all-amateur Sport Club squad has been able to win only one game in 13. Open professional bowling tournament.

George Pappas, of Charlotte, N.C., and Tom Tuttle, of King, N.C., are holding down the one and two spots as the original field of 168 pros has been narrowed to five finalists who

Manager Heinz Ullig will go with an all-veteran lineup of will compete for first place prize money of $6,000 this afternoon over nationwide television (ABC network, 3:30 p.m. EST).

Pappas averaged better than 216 pins per game for the first 40 qualifying games and won 14 of the 16 game semi-final block. He won his first tournament two weeks ago in the Miller High Life Open in Milwaukee.

Tuttle moved into second place by winning 10 of his semi-final 16 games which boosted his total pinfall to 9201.

The competition today will start with the fourth and fifth place holders bowling head-to-head and then work its way up until someone gets the final chance to beat Pappas.

The five finalists and their scores:

1. George Pappas, Charlotte, N.C. 9366
2. Tom Tuttle, King, N.C. 9201
3. Mike McGrath, El Cerrito, Calif. 9040
4. Don McCune, Munster, Ind. 9030
5. Bill Johnson, New Orleans 8973

Are the Rangers Folding a Bit?

By United Press International
Are the New York Rangers folding under the pressure? Coach Emile Francis says no, even though recent developments seem to indicate otherwise.

The Rangers, who led the National Hockey League's Eastern Division until last weekend, lost their third game in a row Friday night and stretched their winless string through five games as the St. Louis Blues skated off to a 3-1 victory.

The defeat left the Rangers still one point behind the idle Boston Bruins in the battle for first place in the East, but the Rangers' lackluster performance in recent games indicates the team might be in for a real tailspin.

"We're just not scoring goals," says Francis. "It's putting an extra burden on our defense. Even though we're missing a few players our defensemen are playing very well. We're just not getting as many scoring opportunities. This time of the season everybody tightens up."

The Rangers, who have three starters out with injuries, played the Blues even until the third period when goals by Gary Sabourin and Tim Eccles lifted St. Louis to its seventh victory in its last 10 games. The Blues now lead the Western Division by 16 points over Pittsburgh.

In the only other NHL contest, Chicago defeated Oakland 3-2 on Stan Mikite's 37th goal of the season in the final period. The loss was the fifth in a row for the Seals, who attracted a home record crowd of 12,042 to the game.

Miss Fowler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. Jansen Fowler of Kingston, is also a top tennis name in Ulster county. At present, she is the Ulster women's champion, shares the women's doubles with her mother, Mary Fowler, and the mixed doubles with Pete Zeeh.

Dr. Roosa Tells of Future Plans

Onteora Hears About BOCES

BOICEVILLE
Lamenting that many people "still look down on BOCES as a program for dummies," Dr. Jack Roosa said the "biggest problem" BOCES now has is "overcoming the college syndrome."

Dr. Roosa made the statement at a special meeting of the Ontario Board of Education Thursday night. In the high school cafeteria at Boiceville, he presented the BOCES "story," utilizing a slide show and emphasizing future plans for expansion.

Dr. Roosa is District Superintendent of the Ulster County Board of Cooperative Educational Services, a vocational training program for area students. In attempting to educate non-college bound youth for a vocation after the high school years, BOCES has a far-reaching training program in bricklaying, machine shop work, plumbing, beautician courses, computer use, and other trades.

"But," said Dr. Roosa at the Ontario meeting, "a problem often encountered is the fact that many segments of society still look down on people with dirty hands." He feels that part of the problem revolves around the fact that most parents say their children "must go to college." But he points out that not everyone today feels so strongly about a college education, including many of the younger generation who care little for a degree.

He sees a need for high school guidance workers and parents to "turn present thinking around," since college is not necessarily the "obvious thing" for today's youth. That we have very few plumbers today, for example, is disconcerting in view of the fact that wages for plumbers is exceptionally high; should be attractive to more future careerists.

Dr. Roosa pointed out that BOCES, through its advisory committee, provides a much-needed program in Ulster County: will be able to do much more with added public acceptance and support.

On the advisory committee are representatives of the Office of Economic Opportunity, the Community Action group, trade unions, and the N.Y. State Employment Service. At the Ontario session, this raised some question of why no representative of a local industrial employer was represented on the committee.

As one school board member put it: "To design the program system for vocational needs in the area would seem to call for the assistance of employers and managers of local corporations on how to use computers,"

Such representatives would be in a position to help project local needs of local companies over the next five years or more.

Another board member was concerned that BOCES has no advisory council for its computer program, and that equipment being used in these courses are "antiques" or "second generation computers."

He observed this results in "a ching today's students tomorrow's skills on yesterday's equipment."

He also contended that if "any county in the nation has talented people with knowledge on how to use computers," it is Ulster County, and he suggested BOCES could get "more proper advice" than it is getting now on use of computers and the types of computers used by local businesses.

It was also brought out at the meeting that Ontario has one of the lowest enrollments in the vocational guidance program furnished by BOCES, but this fact attributed, in part, to the distance between the northern Ulster school and BOCES headquarters in Kingston and New Paltz.

Four Arrested For Shoplifting In Area Stores

TOWN OF ULSTER Security officers at two area stores with the assistance of Kingston State Police on Friday arrested two youths and two men and charged them with petit larceny involving separate shoplifting incidents.

Ralph Crotty, 18, of Box 83, Chichester, was accused by Chief Security Officer Herbert O'Brien of stealing a pair of blue bell bottom pants valued at $5.99 from Big Scot's Discount Department Store on Route 28. Crotty later pleaded guilty before Ulster Town Justice Arthur A. Reilly and was fined $25 or 25 days in jail. He paid the fine. Trooper W.T. Wilson assisted in the arrest.

At 9:10 last night, O'Brien arrested Daniel Bohan, 17, of Box 261, Fleischmans, and 17-year-old Michael Duboveck of Hubbell Road, Margaretville at Big Scot's. Bohan was accused of the theft of two paperback books valued at $3.20. Arraigned before Kingston Town Justice Robert Ferrigan, he was fined $10 and given until Wednesday to pay the fine. Because he threw the books under a car and spoiled them, he was ordered to pay for the books.

O'Brien accused Duboveck of the theft of a can of Bardall and a brown hat, value at $5.38. The youth pleaded guilty before Judge Ferrigan and was fined $10 on the same terms as those granted Bohan. Trooper F. Nuzzio assisted in both arrests.

Meanwhile, a security officer at the Montgomery Ward Company Store, assisted by Trooper William McNab, arrested Dale Hartzell, 38, of Jacksonville, Fla., and accused him of the theft of merchandise valued at $2.99 at the store. Hartzell pleaded guilty to the shoplifting count and was fined $10.

WOODSTOCK
Woodstock League of Women Voters will have the opportunity to hear David Lenefsky speak on "The Special Problems of Man and His Environment" at a coffee at the home of Mrs. Larry M. Moss, Zena Road, on Monday 8 p.m.

Lenefsky lives in West Shokan. He is a lawyer and currently works as a policy analyst and researcher with the U.N. Association of the U.S. "Man and His Environment" is an especially timely topic, so important that President Nixon included it in his State of the Union address. Lenefsky is especially qualified to speak on "Environment" as he is currently involved in the staff work for the Program of Parallel Work recently established between the U.S. UN Association and the Soviet UN Association/Academy of Sciences.

One of the topics for parallel work between the two associations is: "International Cooperation on the Special Problems of Man and His Environment: Air and Water Pollution and Urban Congestion." League members are urged to come and hear this special presentation. The public is also welcome.

Dear Abby

Is He Grown Up Yet?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend, who is 30 years old, lives with his mother who has been a widow since he was very small. (He always has.)

What puzzles and disturbs me is the sleeping arrangement at his house. He sleeps in the same bedroom with his mother. (Twin beds, but in the same room.)

There is another bedroom in the house, but it is cluttered full of junk, and they never seem to get around to cleaning it out so he can move into it.

Do you think there is something abnormal here, and if so, is there any hope for a normal husband-wife relationship with a man like this? He has many wonderful qualities, such as attentiveness, belief in God, and faithfulness. I trust him completely and know he would be a good husband, provider, and father. But I keep wondering if this relationship with his mother might later ruin our marriage.

DEAR PUZZLED: The only advice I can give you with the limited information you have given me is, DON'T marry this man until you are sure that he can live without his mother. I would not take lightly the fact that he and mama still share the same bedroom. It's not the healthiest omen.

DEAR ABBY: Our married children are always telling us they would like a photo of mom and dad, but they don't offer to pay for it, and we have better use for our funds.

Photographers go to schools and take beautiful photographs of children for a very reasonable price. Stores offer coupons to take lovely photos of babies for as little as 99 cents. But a regular studio photo of a couple cost a fortune.

Why don't some of these photographers get smart and offer picture coupons to us Senior Citizens at prices we can afford to pay? It wouldn't take nearly as much time to get posed and "smiling," as it would a baby. Then our children would have a decent likeness to show to their children and grandchildren.

To future generations, a picture of "grandma and grandpa" together after 40 or 50 years of marriage might be something to brag about. What do YOU think, Abby?

OLD FOLKS
DEAR OLD FOLKS: I think it's a great idea, and undoubtedly so will some sharp photographers — if they haven't already thought of it. But there will be some who will think it's for the "birds."

DEAR ABBY: How can I keep a dear little old lady in her 70's from taking my newspaper every day? She tells me she doesn't think it's a good idea for my newspaper to be outside my door because it is a "signal" to burglars that nobody's home.

Abby, I work the 3 to 11 shift, and sometimes I sleep late, but when I get up I want my newspaper to be there!

Most of the time it's gone, so I knock on my little old neighbor's door and she hands it over, telling me she's had it at her "daughters" house, or her "brother's" house, or even to a friend's house down the street.

Any suggestions? ANNOYED

DEAR ANNOYED: Yes. Tell your little old neighbor that you appreciate her thoughtfulness, but in the future you'll take your "chances" with the "burglars." Please leave your newspaper alone.

DEAR ABBY: you gave some good reasons why a man, if given a choice, prefers to date a divorcee over a widow. But you "forget" one of the most important:

When a man takes a widow out, she usually spends the entire evening telling him what a great guy her husband was. But when a man takes out a divorcee, she's not about to rave about what a great guy her ex-husband was because if he had been all that great, she'd still be married to him. LENNY

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Horoscope By SYDNEY OMARR It's In The Stars

("The wise man controls his destiny... astrology points the way.")

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY MARCH 8, 1970

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Cycle high; utilize innate sense of pioneering. Make your own traditions. Don't be bound by the mistakes of others. Restriction is lifted. A very fine Sunday indeed.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You are going to have fun. But you also can gain emotional fulfillment by visiting one confined to home, hospital. Plainly, application of Golden Rule today is a necessity.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You can make solid contacts which result in lasting friendships. Express interest, enthusiasm. Family tie is clarified. You find out what is expected of you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Spotlight on your degree of self-esteem. You learn, observe and are better able to communicate. One who thinks much of you expresses those feelings.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Take long-range view. Realize family harmony, security are preferable to sensationalism. Message becomes increasingly clear as day progresses. Check your sense of value.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Interest in unusual subjects brings you together with alert, aware persons. Plumb spiritual depths. Heed counsel of one who is devoted to enlightenment.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Lie low; play waiting game. Do more listening than asserting. Keep guard against one who wants to burden you with sob story. Be gracious but wary.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Keep health resolutions. Refuse to find excuses for excess. Get sufficient rest. Quiet time with those who share interests is proper key.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Creative resources come to fore — utilize them. Don't fear change. Welcome challenge. Be truthful in relations with children. A loved one makes special request. Grant it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Your place of residence is in spotlight. You should strive to correct minor defects. This is the day to get things done. Protect your basic security.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Accent on evaluation of ideas. Stop permitting well-meaning individual to waste your time. Get thoughts on paper. Give your spiritual side some nourishment.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You can add to possessions. Genuine bargains are available. Stick to the rules — and to quality. Then this becomes a meaningful day. Study AQUARIUS message.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you often surprise friends because you have reservoirs of strength. Proves again that some clichés are true — that one cannot judge a book by its cover. You are embarking upon new enterprise — your life becomes more exciting because you come alive.

(To find out who's lucky for you in money and love, order Sydney Omarr's booklet, "Secret Hints for Men and Women." Send birthdate and 50 cents to Omarr Astrology Secrets, The Daily Freeman, Box 3240, Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y. 10017.)

FORECAST FOR MONDAY MARCH 9, 1970

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Lunar position accents sudden breaks, a jolt which gets you going along a different path. Day to expand, to express views. Don't be upset by unorthodox actions on part of mate, close associate.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Light touch wins day. Avoid trying to force issue. Cycle is on upgrade. But delicate sense of timing is a requisite. Visit individual who is temporarily handicapped.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): If you expect the status quo, you will be disappointed. But if prepared for adventure, change, surprise — then you will be riding with the tide. Trust hunch.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Expect changes at home and in career matters. Some of your aspirations come to pass in most unusual manner. Family member is involved; definite financial gain is shown.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You may be sidetracked on journey. Some messages get misdirected. Check numbers, instructions, addresses, appointment times.

Flamboyant individual makes you laugh — but keeps a straight face.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You could get rid of white elephant. Realize that tastes, needs vary. Be confident. You do have something of value — even if you personally are tired of it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You act in manner which surprises even your closest friends. You rid yourself of burden. You lay it out on the line where feelings, thoughts, basic emotions are concerned — all to the good.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): New outlook on health, work, general habits is required. You make some concessions in order to gain certain advantages. It is a day for give and take. No one is complete winner.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Friend who disagrees is not necessarily being disagreeable. Realize this, and respond accordingly. Spotlight on your ability to come up with new methods, exciting concepts.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): What was stable may be renovated. Applies to home, property — and to some individuals. Today you must be versatile. Have alternative methods at hand. Message clear by tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Avoid unnecessary journeys. Some details are not clear — and they should be. Know this, and don't be in too much of a hurry. Relative who makes charges is merely being impulsive.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Closing communication gap is of special importance today. Unless you do, there could be monetary loss. Specify what you require. Read between the lines — study fine print.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are a natural humanitarian. You can teach, write and, most important, reach those who are underdogs. You can get through to people who have closed themselves in — you thus are a valuable person. Circumstances now seem to dictate your actions. The changes which are occurring need not be opposed.

BARBS

By PHIL PASTORET

An old-timer is a fellow who can recall when kids could get all the cigar boxes they wanted, just for the asking at the corner drugstore.

A restaurant not far from here advertises umpteen kinds of ice cream, and the last time we were there they were all on the menu.

Our neighbor is so up to his ears in debt that he's buying on the lay-away plan.

When you find the pot at the end of the rainbow, someone will have lifted the money.

Money doesn't make the world go round, but it does buy a lot of grease to keep the bearings from squeaking.

If the love of money is the root of all evil, we're the world's champion gardener. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Pessimistic Play Pays Dividends

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Pessimistic Pete adjusted his suspenders, tightened his belt and checked his safety pins. Then he took his ace of hearts and led a trump to dummy's ace.

Both opponents followed and Pete remarked, "We'll have to be very unlucky to go down now." Then he came to his hand with a second trump and played the three of clubs. When West played the 10, Pete actually smiled as he reached for dummy's ace. "Lucky players would try for seven, but I'll take the sure six," was his typical comment.

Then he came to his hand with a spade and led his nine of clubs. When West showed out Pete was in a pessimistic seventh heaven. His cautious line of play had insured his contract for him.

The mopping up was easy. He played low from dummy and East took his jack. Later on East had to cover the queen of clubs with the king. This set up the eight-spot in dummy for an eventual discard of Pete's third spade.

Pete's play of this hand is well worthy of study. Any good player would be careful with the clubs and would lead the three, not the nine. Any really careful rubber bridge player would also play the ace of clubs, not the queen, and give up the play for that 20-point extra trick. As for an expert match point player we rather fear that he would try for seven and blow the slam in a duplicate game.

Kingston's New City Hall—The $900,000 Question

Flash: Freeman reporter nominated for Nick the Greek Forecasting Award after city hall predictions.

(Nick the Greek's bookmaking record in predicting Super Bowl outcomes in the past two years is now sports history).

In last week's column we had predicted that city hall would go down something like 8-5 if it came to a vote. Well, it did come to a vote on Tuesday night and passed, like 9-4.

It would appear that a 9-4 victory is a heck of a way from an 8-5 defeat. But, then again, appearances can be deceiving.

Three votes could have made all the difference in the world, the difference between victory and defeat. The three votes we're talking about were cast by Eddie Roux, Flo Ludlow and Don Quick, all in favor of the city hall.

Obviously, we had figured them the other way. We had figured that Flo and Don, who had reservations about their plans, would stick to their guns. Unfortunately, for our track record, one of the faster guns at city hall came back from vacation to lead the charge for approval. Ole "Snake Oil" Gallo came up with a way out for Flo and Don.

The reasoning went something like this: We know you've got some objections to the city hall plans but they're really not that major. Give the thing a chance. Let's put it out to bid and find out if we can really get the thing for $900,000. Besides, you'll get another chance to vote on it.

It was a reasonable argument so Flo and Don bought it. Ed Roux was something else. He's from downtown.

In fact, he replaced the man (Fred Harder) who was chairman of the City Hall Committee last year. We suspect that Ed wanted to vote for the city hall all along but didn't want to be a party to those two special meetings. Once Gallo came back, everything was on the up and up. Anyway, if Roux, Mrs. Ludlow and Quick hadn't messed up our figures the vote would have been 7-6 against the city hall which isn't too far off from 8-5.

City Beat

By HUGH REYNOLDS
Freeman City Hall Reporter

Flash: Freeman reporter cons way out of Nick the Greek Award.

Actually, we're just as happy it turned out the way it did. We couldn't take many more meetings on city hall. Maybe the next one will be the last one.

Regressing for a moment, it seems that there are two schools of thought on the $900,000 city hall. One says that a $900,000 city hall would wind up looking like a quonset hut. The other says that if city hall is built the way it is designed it'll cost a million and a half. Either outcome, of course, would be unacceptable.

Most of those opinions are offered by aldermen, none of whom, the last time we looked, knew a great deal about architecture.

Bob Milliken, Ned Milliken's son, has been working on the plans since last June and seems to know what he's talking about. Bob is hardly the picture of boyish enthusiasm but he does appear confident that the hall can be built the way it's designed for $900,000, or less.

As he says, "We've been over this thing time and time again. It checks out."

Hopefully, the bidders will agree with Milliken.

COUNCIL NOTES — The aldermen would probably call it decorum but Council meetings are a good bit quieter than they used to be. We remember the battles between Joe Epstein and Johnny Naccarato with Ed Norton and John Machione joining in. Cliff Sinsabaugh used to be good for a blast now and then but even he has calmed down.

Tuesday night some of the most important issues ever to face the city hardly got a ripple. Machione sat mum when city hall went by him. He said later that he'd said it all before which seemed to make sense after Sinsabaugh got up and said it all again.

The so-called "1.60th" pension plan got nary a murmur. No one bothered to even ask what it was going to cost for the city to pick up the whole shot on the retirement plans for the cops and firemen. Maybe the aldermen consider $24,000 petty cash.

The Republicans, Machione tells us, are playing it cool. It looks like they've cooled it to the point of rigor mortis.

Machione did have something to say, however, about Hillcrest Gardens. John asked Bob Gallo what was going on up there, as if Bob knew. (Complaints have been filed charging lack of heat). A few of the other aldermen didn't appreciate Machione's actions. Common Council protocol says that you don't get involved in another alderman's ward. Hillcrest Gardens is in John Heitzman's ward.

COFFEE TIME — We've been saving this one for a while. It seems that a few weeks ago, Bob Gallo, who guzzles coffee like Juan Valdez, was miffed at his favorite coffee shop for raising their price per container by two cents.

Gallo declared a boycott and set up his own coffee pot at his florist shop. He planned to charge ten cents a cup for the many visitors who imbibe out there.

The plan had two things going against it. Gallo was the only guy who could drink his own coffee (anyone else needed a stomach pump) and the only dimes he was getting were his own. (Naturally, since Gallo made the coffee, he refused to pay for it).

So Gallo is back to the containers, happily howling about the high price of coffee . . .

Alert Citizen Helps Thwart City Burglary

KINGSTON — Alertness of two patrolmen and the timely response to the police department Crime Check Program, early today resulted in the arrest of two young men who were surprised in the act of burglarizing Sam Day's service station on Broadway at Delaware Avenue.

Held on third degree burglary in connection with a break-in were 21-year-old Floyd Coddington of 50 Hunter Street, and 16-year-old Fred James Albright, whose address was listed as 27 Hone Street. They were scheduled to appear in City Court.

Officers Frank Kennelly and Schwertsfeger were in police headquarters giving lieutenant their possession silver and pen-Guernsey Burger information totaling $29.71, which about a girl they had seen at authorities said had been taken the Trailways Bus terminal at 1:35 a. m. The girl, 15-year-old Barbara Ann Smith of 86 Cedar Street, had been reported missing by her mother.

Tankers Clog Kodiak Beaches; 10,000 Birds Killed by Oil

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Gobs of heavy oil, apparently flushed from passing tankers, clog beaches along 1,000 miles of shoreline on the east coast of Kodiak Island, and federal spokesmen estimate at least 10,000 birds have been killed by it.

"It appears that it has been a series on tankers coming in and dumping dirty ballast water," Gene Dickson, director of the federal Water Pollution Control Administration office in Anchorage said Friday.

"But I think there's no way we can ever identify any specific vessel responsible."

The 1,000 miles of shoreline includes a myriad of intricate indentations that reach into the east side of the Kodiak Island group from the northern tip of WASHINGTON (AP) — A high AFL-CIO official said today the nation's sharply rising unemployment under President Nixon's anti-inflation policies is threatening White House efforts to put more Negroes into jobs.

"This work may very well be impeded in coming months by unemployment, which is already rising and may go even higher," said Lane Kirkland, secretary-treasurer of the 13.6 million member labor federation.

The Nixon administration reported Friday the nation's jobless rate jumped from 3.9 to 4.2 per cent of the civilian labor force, or a rise of 388,000 unemployed to a total of 3.8 million.

HIGHLAND — Construction of the new $2.5-million Highland Elementary School moved towards the starting date Friday, apparently overcoming the last of the many problems that have beset the project since voters passed approval for the school last June.

The Revena Construction, accepted by the Highland Board of Education and the winning bidder for site work at the school turned in its performance bond Friday, only hours before the 4 p.m. deadline set by the board.

School Attorney Stewart Schantz told Supervising Principal Donald Baines at 4 p.m. Friday that the bond had been delivered to his office in time and that the attorney will spend the weekend examining the work contract guarantee, before making judgment on its acceptability.

The principal said the board of education is prepared to hold a special meeting as soon as the attorney checks the bond recently returned to the construction company after "a small snag" was discovered.

It had been contended by one other construction company seeking the contract that Revena was not a "responsible bidder." That firm, the A. F. Lehman Company of Kingston, filed suit against the board and Revena contending that charge and the fact that the principal owner of Revena is the son of a board of education member.

Lehman had also said that the Revena firm would be unable to issue a guarantee bond for the contract, an opinion that was shown to be "almost true" in the past week when the firm was given its bond back and told to correct it or forfeit the right to have the contract.

In a meeting last week, the board of education was told by Schantz that Revena's bond was not acceptable at that time and called for the extension of the deadline until Friday.

Meanwhile, Lehman has recently appealed the state Supreme Court decision that threw out his suit against the school and the firm asking that Lehman come up with more proof.

Lehman recently filed his appeal with the State Appellate Court regarding the contract award. Lehman is charging that Revena, owned by Raymond Constantino, son of school board member Joseph Constantino, would be entering into an illegal "conflict of interest" situation, a situation that calls for negotiations between the firm and the school board.

He also charges that Revena, who will be working on their first site work project when the Highland School contract is signed, is not qualified to do such work. The Kingston contractor, who was the second lowest bidder on the project, said Revena was mistaken when it was estimated that 6,000 yards of rock would have to be removed, and said according to maps and surveys, as much as 40,000 yards would have to be moved. That would, according to Lehman's contention, require an overrun on the contract cost and thus would call for negotiations between the younger Constantino and the board of education and his father.

Lehman has estimated that the site work could run as high as $500,000, or about three or four times the basic contract amount.

TEL AVIV (AP) — The Israeli military command said today Israeli raiders crossed into Lebanon and blew up five buildings in a small village.

A spokesman said the raid Friday night was a reply to 37 acts of sabotage since Jan. 1 against Israeli settlements by Arab guerrillas attacking across the normally quiet 49-mile Israeli-Lebanese border.

The strike force killed one Arab terrorist, the spokesman said and returned safely with two captives. The target was the village of Aita Ech Chaao, less than a mile from the border.

In Beirut, a military spokesman said the Israelis sent two forces across the frontier. One attacked the village, killing one Lebanese soldier and wounding a civilian. The other apparently tried to cut off Arab guerrillas suspected of escaping from the village, the spokesman added.

Earlier Friday, Israeli reconnaissance jets battled Egyptian MIG21s on the Egyptian side of the Suez Canal and shot down two of them, the Israelis said.

Performance Bond Submitted

By SHANE CROSBY

HIGHLAND — Construction of the new $2.5-million Highland Elementary School moved towards the starting date Friday, apparently overcoming the last of the many problems that have beset the project since voters passed approval for the school last June.

The Revena Construction, accepted by the Highland Board of Education and the winning bidder for site work at the school turned in its performance bond Friday, only hours before the 4 p.m. deadline set by the board.

School Attorney Stewart Schantz told Supervising Principal Donald Baines at 4 p.m. Friday that the bond had been delivered to his office in time and that the attorney will spend the weekend examining the work contract guarantee, before making judgment on its acceptability.

The principal said the board of education is prepared to hold a special meeting as soon as the attorney checks the bond recently returned to the construction company after "a small snag" was discovered.

It had been contended by one other construction company seeking the contract that Revena was not a "responsible bidder." That firm, the A. F. Lehman Company of Kingston, filed suit against the board and Revena contending that charge and the fact that the principal owner of Revena is the son of a board of education member.

Lehman had also said that the Revena firm would be unable to issue a guarantee bond for the contract, an opinion that was shown to be "almost true" in the past week when the firm was given its bond back and told to correct it or forfeit the right to have the contract.

In a meeting last week, the board of education was told by Schantz that Revena's bond was not acceptable at that time and called for the extension of the deadline until Friday.

Meanwhile, Lehman has recently appealed the state Supreme Court decision that threw out his suit against the school and the firm asking that Lehman come up with more proof.

Lehman recently filed his appeal with the State Appellate Court regarding the contract award. Lehman is charging that Revena, owned by Raymond Constantino, son of school board member Joseph Constantino, would be entering into an illegal "conflict of interest" situation, a situation that calls for negotiations between the firm and the school board.

He also charges that Revena, who will be working on their first site work project when the Highland School contract is signed, is not qualified to do such work. The Kingston contractor, who was the second lowest bidder on the project, said Revena was mistaken when it was estimated that 6,000 yards of rock would have to be removed, and said according to maps and surveys, as much as 40,000 yards would have to be moved. That would, according to Lehman's contention, require an overrun on the contract cost and thus would call for negotiations between the younger Constantino and the board of education and his father.

Lehman has estimated that the site work could run as high as $500,000, or about three or four times the basic contract amount.

TEL AVIV (AP) — The Israeli military command said today Israeli raiders crossed into Lebanon and blew up five buildings in a small village.

A spokesman said the raid Friday night was a reply to 37 acts of sabotage since Jan. 1 against Israeli settlements by Arab guerrillas attacking across the normally quiet 49-mile Israeli-Lebanese border.

The strike force killed one Arab terrorist, the spokesman said and returned safely with two captives. The target was the village of Aita Ech Chaao, less than a mile from the border.

In Beirut, a military spokesman said the Israelis sent two forces across the frontier. One attacked the village, killing one Lebanese soldier and wounding a civilian. The other apparently tried to cut off Arab guerrillas suspected of escaping from the village, the spokesman added.

Earlier Friday, Israeli reconnaissance jets battled Egyptian MIG21s on the Egyptian side of the Suez Canal and shot down two of them, the Israelis said.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Three violent explosions blew out the front of a Greenwich Village town house Friday, killing at least one person and starting a fire that drove 23 families from their homes.

Film star Dustin Hoffman, his wife and daughter Karina were among those temporarily displaced by the flames.

Two young women, one of them nude, escaped from the wreckage. They left the scene in an apparent state of shock and have not yet been located by authorities.

The one known fatality, a red-haired youth whose body was located by crews shoveling through the smoldering rubble, has not been identified.

The first blast, apparently caused by a gas leak, knocked a hole in the front wall of a four-story brick house on West 11th Street, one of the most picturesque blocks in Greenwich Village. The building's owner was away on a vacation.

The force of the blast littered the street with bricks and broke windows in adjoining buildings. After two lesser explosions, the entire front wall of the building collapsed.

Two girls escaped from the rubble. One was nude, the other was wearing slacks and a shirt, and both were covered with soot.

Mrs. Susan Wager, a neighbor, took the girls to her apartment, where they bathed and borrowed clothes.

"I don't know where they went after that," Mrs. Wager said. "They said they were going to the drugstore for medicine, but they never came back."

Ron Radice: An Actor Turns Playwright

RON RADICE

"Writing isn't hard; no harder than ditch-digging."

—PATRICK DENNIS

"I like working with a collaborator. It's nice to have company when you come face to face with a blank page."

—GEORGE S. KAUFMAN

As we go to press, "Gem of the Ocean" and "Pickpocket," two original plays by actor-turned-author Ron Radice, have already been performed to their first curtain calls. Interviewed before their presentation Friday night at Woodstock Town Hall, Radice gave little indication that he agrees with "Auntie Mame" author Dennis or "Silent Night" detractor Kaufman.

Without collaborator and without too much sweat, he authored two one-act plays that so impressed Performing Arts of Woodstock, the theatrical group rushed them into production. They opened last night at Town Hall in the art colony; will be seen again tonight, March 7, and on March 13, 14, 20 and 21 at 8:30 p. m.

Radice, whose flowing mustache and below-the-ears hair style give him the look of a Tolstoy hero in modern day dress, has impressed local audiences as an actor in recent years. He has appeared in such Performing Arts productions as "The Bench," "The Banana Thief," "As I Lay Dying," "Riders to the Sea," and "The Heads Tell It Like It Is." In the latter, he showed a flair for satire; in the others, a notable empathy for the underestated performance.

Now, with "Gem" and "Pickpocket," he has turned playwright; found the transition easy since both plays, his first, had been germinating ("floating around in my head") for a long, long time. They were completed for a Bard College playwrighting class he attended last year; marked a new avenue for his interests in the theater.

"I had written short stories," he says, "but never found the need or challenge to write a play." But next to his job as a systems programmer at IBM and his family (wife, son, daughter and a baby due in July), the theater was his biggest interest. So he decided to find out whether he could write a play; was surprised to discover himself finishing two and even more surprised that someone was interested in doing them. As far as PAW is concerned, the group is "proud" to be presenting one of its "own," since Radice has not only acted with the group but also serves on the board of directors.

Audience reaction to last night's opening performance has given the new author the impetus to continue in this form of writing.

Radice penned "Pickpocket" as a two-character play, focusing on the confrontation of identities between two men. "Gem of the Ocean" might almost be labelled a "propaganda piece," since it delves into the generation gap.

And Radice, only a few years out of New Jersey's Upsala College where he majored in English, has very definite ideas about the alienation of modern day youth. "I think there is no

For Them, Rock's the Mother Tongue

Unlike many rock groups today, MORNING AFTER is not much interested in talking up a revolution. Its three clean-cut, suede-jacketed-and-vested members prefer to sing songs that are rhythmic with vocal harmony rather than rife with social movement.

As performers, they come on as a rock trio of a different breed, forsaking screaming lyrics and fire-eating antics for music with a straight-ahead sound. And that's good, as they prove conclusively on their first record—a 45 rpm recording made up of "I Don't Need You Today" on the A side and "Dream" on the flip side.

The Kingston-based MORNING AFTER is riding the crest of today's pop wave in club dates throughout the Hudson Valley. Relying on the powerful, bluesy, lean sounds of Wallkill drummer Jim Tate, Kingston lead guitarist Joe Kearney, and bass guitarist Bruce Talbott of Walden, the trio has been packing the crowds in around the area. Their impeccable instrumental style and express-track delivery has brought them bookings at The Creamery in West Park, the Thunderbird in Saugerties, the Blue Eagle in New Paltz, and the Trade Wind and Coral Reef in Newburgh.

They've Arrived

Much in demand for college concerts, festivals and dances, MORNING AFTER has fun on stage and makes fun for audiences mainly because these are musicians doing their own thing and enjoying it. A well-established group, they long ago went through the process of getting to know each other musically. They have now arrived on the area music scene; prove their talent is considerable with the original pieces composed and arranged by the group for both side of the record, just published by Dyad Music, BMI.

With guitar, bass and drums, they lay down contemporary rock as it was meant to be done. All three sing lead and backing vocals, creating fine vocal harmony that puts the material across without assaulting the eardrums. And the material is good because Tate, Talbott and Kearney get really involved in a communication between themselves and the audience.

On "I Don't Need You Today" and "Dream," MORNING AFTER is definitely into the groove of what's going on today. Obviously, they love their music, unlike other groups that belt rock to the rafters, they use power for emphasis instead of just power. A dramatic underscoring is evident on this first record, making it all music—music that gets down to where rock is supposed to be.

Drummer Jim Tate, at 23, has been playing since junior high school with many top flight groups. His drumming is hard and steady and jazz-oriented in its flair for inventiveness and taste. Electric bassist Talbott, who tied in with the other two members of the group during a jam session while he was a student at New Paltz State University College, speaks in a blues dialect as a performer. A writer as well as a jammer, he composed the A side of the new record. Guitarist Kearney, 24, has a blues melody style all his own, evident in both his playing and composing.

"MORNING AFTER" ROCK TRIO is a group of a different breed. Vocal harmony replaces screaming lyrics on their records, and all three members sing lead and backing vocals, including (l-r) lead guitarist Joe Kearney, drummer Jim Tate and electric bassist Bruce Talbott.

A Deft Touch

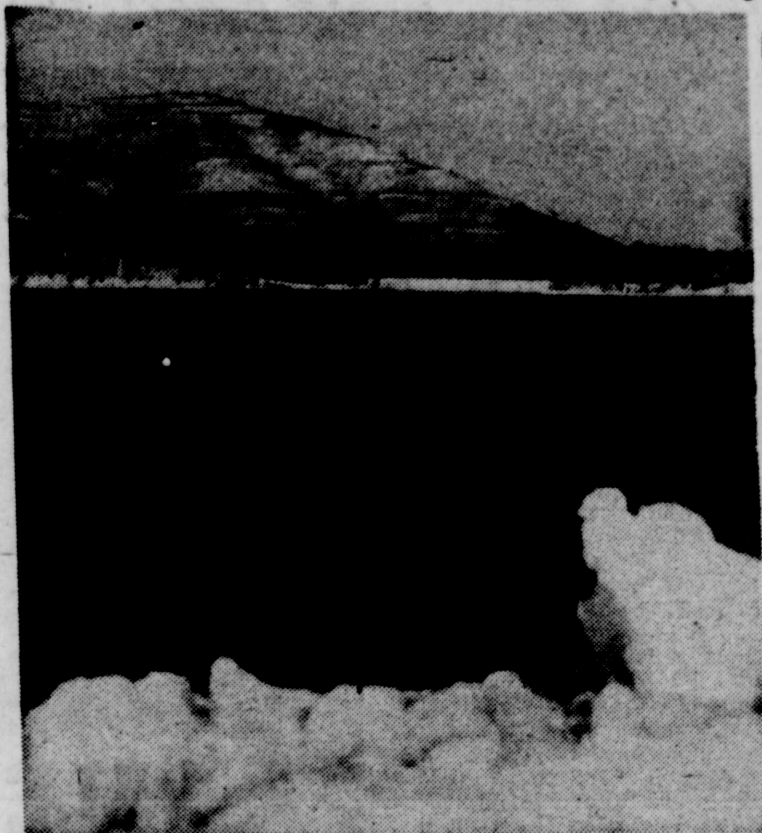

The new record shows what the group can do; should put them across as an inventive trio of wide acceptance. MORNING AFTER uses jazz, pop and rock freely and with a deft touch. At isolated moments, bits and pieces of "Dream" and "I Don't Need You Today" are reminiscent of one of Britain's top groups, Led Zeppelin. But, overall, the integral part of their sound is their own—totally original in its own right.

With this record, MORNING AFTER proves its energy and drive, suggestive of more than three members and offering more distinctive sound and fiber record should bring them the than many rock bands. The record should bring them the recognition they deserve and, with luck, their first album some time this year.

The new disc, produced by Lance Naylor for Third Wave Records, was recorded at Kennett Sound Studios in Kinderhook; is currently available at Caldor's, Abrams and Britts. (T.G.)

Winter's Demise Heralded by March

17—THE DAILY FREEMAN, MARCH 7, 1970

OVERLOOK MOUNTAIN, as seen from across the Ashokan Reservoir, is still topped by a light capping of snow. New York's City's drinking water, meanwhile, refuses to become a captive of winter.

SPRING IS ONLY A BREATH AWAY, but along the banks of the Sawkill, the snow-covered shores still nose inquisitively at the ice-cold water.

SPRING COMES SLOWLY to the rugged crags near Palenville. On the upper ledge of a rocky cliff, one side of a waterfall has burst free of winter. But the other side could well remain encased in ice long past the official coming of spring on the calendar this month.

AT LOMONTVILLE, March mornings dawn on a dripping scene. The meeting of still freezing temperatures and rippling waters sheath dangling tree limbs in fingers of ice.

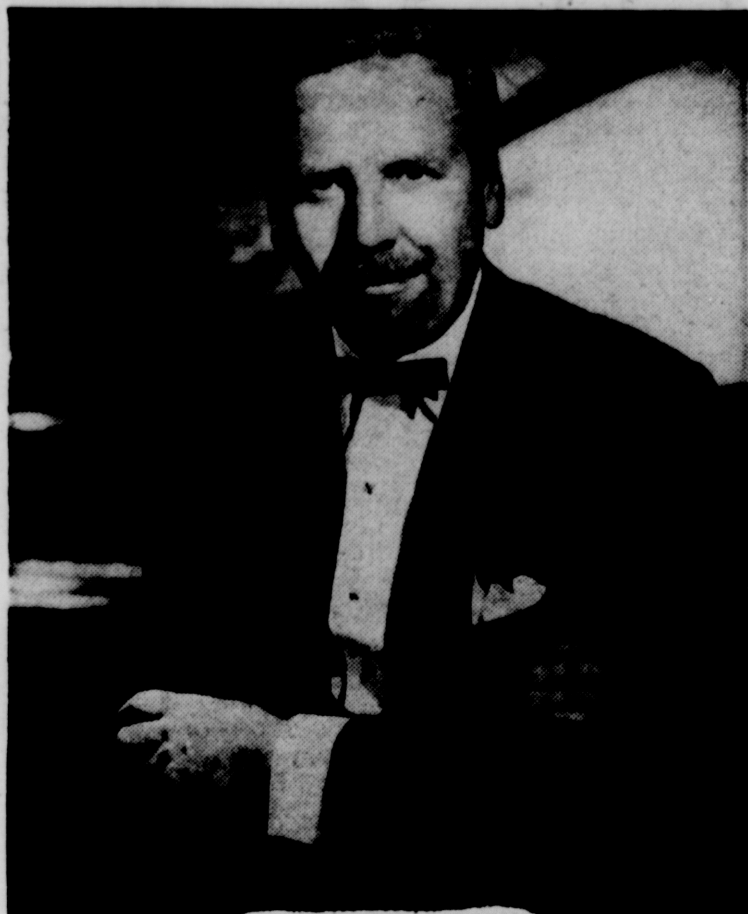

WATERFALL ON HURLEY MOUNTAIN splashes and sparkles in a plunging torrent, escaping the bonds of winter in its wilderness habitat. Soon, spring will make of the site a more tranquil scene, and fishermen will wade knee-deep in the tranquil pools of the streams beyond these ledges.

NEAR DEWITT LAKE, the wan rays of the March sun have not yet succeeded in penetrating the wooded landscape. The snow lingers on while the water has already freed itself from an icy prison.

SKITCH HENDERSON

Skitch Henderson To Guest Conduct Here

One of the few talented conductors to make his name a household word on television, Skitch Henderson comes to Kingston Monday night, March 16, to wield the baton for the Hudson Valley Philharmonic. The versatile Mr. Henderson will be guest conductor of the full 75-piece symphony orchestra for the third concert of the 1969-70 season.

The Henderson name adds luster to the Philharmonic's season as it goes into its second decade locally. Already this year, the Ulster County branch of the Philharmonic Society has presented soprano Eileen Farrell and pianist John Browning in October and November concerts. Following Henderson's appearance, famed violinist Joseph Fuchs will close the season with a concert on April 13.

As a television conductor, Henderson was seen nightly by millions. Here in Kingston, he will conduct the Philharmonic in a program that will include: Laurentian Overture by Shulman, the Unanswered Question by Ives, Romantic Symphony, and a rousing tribute to Irving Berlin by Hanson.

The March 16 concert at which Henderson will guest conduct is slated at the Kingston Community Theatre at 8:30 p. m.

Prints From Two Dozen Nations; A Master Frame Maker Lectures

They have come to the Catskills from Nigeria, Taiwan, Japan, Sweden and Poland. They have journeyed here from England, Korea, Yugoslavia, Russia and France. They are sometimes concerned with poetic abstractions; again with structural elements of realism; on occasion, with natural forms of nature.

As a collection, they represent more than two dozen original prints by artists from around the world. As an exhibit, they speak for two dozen nations. Area residents will be able to see them on display in the Visual Arts Gallery of Ulster County Community College from March 9 to March 27.

The upcoming show is titled "Artist As Printmaker," and is yet another instance of the efforts of the college's Visual Arts Department to bring varied art experiences to its students and all of us who live here. The public is, as usual, welcome to visit the college and view the exhibit.

And a delightful exhibit it is!

Special Evening Of Theatre-Art

"A Very Special Evening of Theatre" is what it's called, and a special evening it will be. It's the third part of the three-part program of the 1969-70 Cultural Series at Newburgh Jewish Community Center, and it takes to the stage this Sunday, March 8 at 8:15 p. m. at the Center, 360 Powell Avenue, Newburgh. A unique evening of theatre will be presented, highlighting eight single performance vehicles starring area actors and actresses. An additional attraction for those attending this entertaining evening's program will be the exhibit of paintings by Woodstock artist Stefan Lokos. Culminating the evening of theatre and art, refreshments will be served by a group of hostesses. For information regarding tickets for the performance, phone 561-6602.

Prints run the gamut in this show. Experimental processes are represented, along with linoleum cuts, woodblocks, lithographs, etchings, engravings, aquatints and serigraphs. To make the show more meaningful, illustrated explanations of the varied graphic techniques and methods of printmaking are included in the unique print exhibit, a display being circulated by the Pratt Center for Contemporary Printmaking through the N. Y. State Council on the Arts. Signed and numbered by the artists, the prints reflect the environment and philosophy of the origins of each individual artist. And, for students and devotees of prints, a lecture-demonstration to tie-in with the exhibit is being arranged by the Visual Arts Department on campus. The lecture, titled "Artist As Framemaker," will give students and public alike an opportunity to Meet-the-Artist, Henry Heydenryk Jr. He'll discuss "Frames—Right and Wrong" on Thursday, March 19 at 1:40 p. m. in the lecture hall (room 420). John Burroughs Science Building, Stone Ridge campus, with a reception following.

Says Professor Ruth Muroff, Visual Arts Department chairman: "Henry Heydenryk is considered a master framemaker and leading authority on the history and aesthetics of picture framing." He is also the author of two books on framing—"The Right Frame" and "The Art and History of Frames."

Heydenryk's March 19 lecture will give insight on the framing of paintings and prints as an important and necessary adjunct of the artist's creation. To hear him will be interesting and educational. To see the "Artist As Printmaker" exhibit from March 9 to March 27 will be an adventure into the world of experimental, original prints from 24 nations around the world.

Ron Radice: An Actor

question that the generation gap exists," he says, "but then it probably always has. It's just that the differences between previous and present gaps are more pronounced with relation to morality and reality."

In writing "Gem," Radice leaned on his theory that the new generation people are willing to "live for a new set of values—values that existed before but were not prevalent throughout the masses of society."

He's convinced that people "like to be hip," and sees nothing wrong in that. But he does feel that "dropping out" is wrong. "All the drop outs are doing," he says, "is running away from society and the problems they have inherited." For Ron, who graduated less than four years ago and went to work immediately for IBM, the very epitome of Establishment enterprise, "youth cannot dissolve the past by saying it just isn't so—and ignoring it completely."

As a "propagandist" for youth (and he's still young enough to speak for his generation), he lauds as "good" the fact that they "have recognized the disparity of values" between their generation and that of their parents. But, says Ron, as a playwright and a member of society, "that alone will not solve the problems."

As hip in his hairstyle as many of today's protesting youth, he remains unconvinced that destruction and revolution offer any answers. "Fighting within the structure" is his way of solving problems, because he believes "there is something that is good about this country—and we should build something better from that."

As a matter of fact, the young playwright feels strongly that dissident students "missed out" initially by bypassing a symbol they "should have used" as their own—the American Flag. By forsaking the Stars and Stripes for the Viet Cong banner, he says, they have cut themselves off from a symbol that could have aided their fight and convinced adults of the rightfulness of their cause. By waving high the wrong symbol, he says, they have "set themselves off in a corner" to be called traitors by their elders.

All these ideas have gone into making "Gem of the Ocean" a moving play. With "pickpocket" an interesting co-feature, the Radice works prove entertaining theater. The seriousness of the plays reflects the fact that author Radice is moved most by the works of Ionesco and Beckett. But actor Radice (who switched from Engineering to English when he got the acting bug at college) is a strong admirer of James Earl Jones, who has shown both dramatic and comedy flair in his performances.

That helps to make it less surprising that Ron, who is now working on other plays, is turning to comedy. He doesn't knock the success of writers like Neil Simon; likes "The Odd Couple" and "Last of the Red Hot Lovers" author enough to try his hand at something similar.

In his first two efforts, Ron Radice will harvest no bad notices from us. We recommend that TEMPC readers reserve seats for tonight's show or the March 13, 14, 20 or 21 performance by calling OR 9-2920 or OR 9-2114. (By TORI GEERTSEMA)

A Banner Year For the Old!

America's love affair for the old and antique is growing. Now at the arena is the first International Camping and Trailer Show opening at the Garden today for a nine-day exhibition. This marks the big-time debut of an all-trailer and camping exposition.

Attendance at the 26th annual National Antiques Show at Madison Square Garden broke all records since 1945, a banner year.

Crowds were so dense one Sunday that at 3 p.m. the doors were closed for more than an hour to permit passage through the aisles. Thousands swarmed inside the arena inspecting some 300 exhibits and 30 side shows of historical and aesthetic interest.

In addition to the record-breaking gate, sales in the realistically priced antiques and memorabilia were very active. In the more exclusive, rare and valuable antiquities and decorative accessories, sales held steady despite tightened business conditions, dealers reported.

More than 150,000 visitors toured the National Antiques

Show before it closed this week. Now at the arena is the first International Camping and Trailer Show opening at the Garden today for a nine-day exhibition. This marks the big-time debut of an all-trailer and camping exposition.

Another Classic For Simon and Garfunkel

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

There are some performers whose past work has been such that their new recordings are bought immediately, on the supposition that they'll be good, even before the reviews and word-of-mouth gets around and the radio play begins.

One is the Beatles. Their new Apple album, "Hey Jude," had orders for two million, plus one million for tape, from retailers before it was even released.

Another is Simon and Garfunkel. Their Columbia "Bridge over Troubled Water" LP, just out, was No. 9 on the best-selling chart on Feb. 21 and the title-song single has made No. 1.

"Hey Jude" could be called what Leonard Cohen wanted to title his first album—"My Old Songs." It's the Beatles tidying up, getting singles that haven't been on an album before, out on an album. Well, "Revolution" was on an album, but in a different version.

Singles on here are "Can't Buy Me Love" and "I Should Have Known Better" for aficionados of the early Beatles, "Paperback Writer," "Rain," "Lady Madonna," "Revolution," "Hey Jude," "Old Brown Shoe," "Don't Let Me Down" and "The Ballad of John and Yoko."

Simon and Garfunkel, on the other hand, are presenting nine new things recorded in a studio and "Bye Bye Love," which they didn't write and which they sang in front of a good audience that clapped along gently.

"Bridge over Troubled Water" probably will join "Sounds of Silence" as a classic. It's an offer, in a poetic way, to be a friend who is there whenever needed, and who will soothe and help with problems. "Like a bridge over troubled water, I will ease your mind."

"Baby Driver" is a naughty one, with a high school rock beat for dancing. Simon and Garfunkel have always been right, but shouldn't put off anybody who considers himself not clever and subtle with engineering, and they're getting better. Special effects are there, but simple enough, easy enough to grasp, to appeal to the rest of us, too.

Simon and Garfunkel also ap-

Population Control! Need or Irrelevant?

The widely disputed question of a federal government program for birth control—held by some as the nation's most pressing need, by others as a senseless state invasion of the bedroom—will be debated on "The Advocates," Sunday, March 8 at 10 p.m. over Channels 13 and 17.

Advocate Howard Miller will argue in favor of the proposal. Guest advocate Judy Hope, a Los Angeles attorney and daughter-in-law of comedian Bob Hope, will present an opening case. Moderator will be Victor Palmieri, and the principal guest will be announced.

This 23rd in a 39-part series of debates on major issues, made possible by grants from the Ford Foundation and the Corporation for Public Broadcasting, comes at a time when the need for irrelevance of population control is a major theme of discussion in the nation's Congress, places of worship, hospitals, public assemblies and homes.

A National Disaster?
 The U. S. population currently increases by about 1.5 million annually, a rate that would double the present population in 63 years. Those who foresee an unchecked population increase as a national disaster claim the federal government must take the initiative. A bill calling for $426 million to implement a U.S. program has been introduced, while a Senate hearing has investigated safety of "the pill" which until recently was hailed as the "Female Emancipator."

Some states have liberalized their birth control laws but none has active birth control programs. The U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity maintains 236 birth control clinics across the country, but proponents of birth control urge a high-priority voluntary program launched by Washington.

Chapel Concert

John Tuttle, organist and choirmaster of the Post Chapel, will give an organ concert at 3 p.m. in the Post Chapel at the United States Military Academy, West Point.

The program will include Toccata, Adagia and Fugue in C Major of J. S. Bach, the Chorale in B minor of Cesar Franck and Prelude and Fugue on the name A-L-A-I-N of Maurice Durufle.

Tuttle is a graduate of the Curtis Institute of Music, Philadelphia, and has given concerts and recitals in many churches and colleges in New York and Philadelphia.

The concert is free and open to the general public.

Cactus Flower

A very tangled web indeed is woven when dentist Walter Matthau becomes much too amorously involved with the little blonde in his life, kookie Goldie Hawn. He has posed as a married man to keep her from getting ideas about a permanent relationship. Then he decides to marry her after all—but tender-hearted Goldie, genuinely worried about his wife and children, insists on talking things over with Matthau's non-existent spouse.

To protect his whopping lie, the scheming bachelor drafts his crisp, plain nurse, (Ingrid Bergman) to pose as his about-to-be-divorced wife. What he doesn't know is that Ingrid has always had a yen for him, but has managed to conceal her feelings behind a starchy facade of untouched spinsterhood. When she reluctantly agrees to masquerade as his wife, she emerges as a belated femme fatale.

"Cactus Flower," now at Kingston's Mayfair, is a sophisticated, witty comedy with a high level of entertainment appeal. Stars Matthau and Bergman (in her first picture in Hollywood in 20 years) play with their accustomed professional skill. But main honors have to go to cute and funny Goldie Hawn (of Laugh-In fame) and her attractive admirer (Rick Lenz), the boy next door. They steal the show—and Goldie does it by using her regular voice, not her pipsqueaky Laugh-In voice. The girl is adorable, talented and bright; deserved the Oscar nomination she won for this role.

Downhill Racer

Totally brilliant in this movie, now at Kingston's Community, in which Robert Redford plays a natural born skier and part of an American skiing team competing in Europe toward that big moment in the Olympics.

A taciturn individualist, Redford doesn't quite fit in with the Ivy Leaguers on the team, and clashes from the outset with coach Gene Hackman, a strong personality himself. A dalliance with a Swiss beauty (Camilla Sparo) leaves him a bit bruised when she treats him as casually as he has treated a girl back home. Further on, a summer visit to his laconic father on their scrubby farm in Colorado brings out the emptiness of their dutiful relationship.

The ski champ's feelings, intense and bottled up, are released on the slopes, but there, as he flies with the wind, he is always aware of the specters of injury and failure, and of the challenge of the new, younger competitors. Superbly acted, with remarkable photography of some of the world's best skiing, the film paints an honest picture of the hard work and selfless determination needed in true competition. The taut mood of the competitive world of sport is sustained in high gear throughout in this brilliant study of the genesis of a ski champion—and the movie is as crisp and tightly packed as the happened in America's last ski slopes.

This Is My Alaska

One of the best outdoor films ever made, "This Is My Alaska" is an action packed color feature all filmed in the great Alaskan Wilderness. Shot by a Master Alaskan Guide, it is the true story of a man and the land he loves. The film has a sense of continuity that excites as an actual year in the life of the guide and his wife is unraveled.

Here is a movie that gives a true picture of what an Alaskan guide and bush pilot of note and vast experience really does, every detail true, and recorded on film as it great frontier. Spring, summer, fall and winter hunting and fishing adventures abound as sportsmen roam from the Arctic Ocean to Alaska's South Central Coasts, all wrapped in the wild beauty of the Alaskan Frontier.

"Alaska," now showing at the Orpheum Theatre in Saugerties, is a sportsman's dream; takes audiences on a bush plane adventure to a remote Eskimo Village at 65 degrees below zero in search of Arctic Wolf in the only complete aerial wolf hunt ever filmed. Other scenes focus on a search for the gigantic Polar Bear, fishing for 30

TENOR ROD MACWHERTER

SOPRANO EUNICE MACWHERTER

Both Contemporary & Classical

As a husband-and-wife team, they have performed the musical gamut from musical comedy to opera. And, as a team, they'll delight an area audience with a concert of contemporary and classical music when they take to the stage at New Paltz High School on Sunday, March 22 at 2 p.m.

The talented couple answers to the name of Rod and Eunice MacWherter and they are currently members of the New York Metropolitan Opera. For the Paltz High School recital, they will appear with another illustrious musician, pianist Robert Guralnik, also equally at home with classical and modern music.

Mrs. MacWherter, who sings under her maiden name of Eunice Mobley, is a graduate of both Stephens College and the University of New Mexico. After a season with the Santa Fe Opera Company, she left her home in Albuquerque, New Mexico for Philadelphia to study under a full scholarship at the Academy of Vocal Arts. It was there she met tenor Rod MacWherter and, soon after their marriage, they settled in New Jersey to more easily pursue professional careers in the New York area.

Opera Came First

Soprano Mobley's career has taken her through performances of musical comedy, legitimate theatre, ballet, concert, and opera, which she admits is her first theatrical love.

Her dramatic tenor husband made his debut with the Metropolitan Opera Company in the 1968-69 season. He has also sung with the San Francisco Opera, Dallas Civic Opera, Cleveland Concert Associates and various other opera companies and symphonies in the U.S.

Starting out as a lyric tenor, this young singer has the distinction of having sung most of the tenor repertory from Mozart and Rossini to the challenging Verdi role of "Otello." He has also sung Wagnerian roles to critical acclaim.

Rod MacWherter is a native Philadelphian and a graduate of New York University. A scholarship winner to the Philadelphia Academy of Vocal Arts, he was also winner of the National Arts Club Award for dramatic tenor honors.

The New Paltz High School

concert, emphasizing modern as well as classical music, is being sponsored by the school for the benefit of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic and the P-T-A Scholarship Fund. Reserved seats at $2, $3 and $5 are available by phone from any Philharmonic office or by calling New Paltz High School at 255-1510. Philharmonic subscribers and New Paltz school district parents will receive brochures and ticket reservations through the mail.

Buckley Probes Into an Enigma

Archbishop Fulton J. Sheen, the 75-year-old liberal Catholic, delicately goes to the mat with William Buckley, the articulate conservative, on Channel 17's "Firing Line," Tuesday, March 10 at 8 p.m.

Archbishop Sheen is widely considered a great enigma. Those who like to belittle his evangelism have a hard time swallowing his extraordinary academic record. Those who claim him as a conservative are continually amazed at his position on behalf of government welfare programs. Those who were inspired by his anti-Communist lectures, which began in the early thirties, cannot understand his current calls for withdrawing from Vietnam.

Discussion between the Archbishop and Buckley covers most matters of interest to a modern Catholic, from moral questions like the Vietnam War to doctrinal ones like ecumenism and the issues of Vatican II. Naturally, there is no lack of disagreement, although it is always tempered, always under control. Buckley's questions are probing—"has church attendance fallen off because of ecumenism and the erosion of dogma?" "Why does the church no longer excommunicate?" Archbishop Sheen eloquently defends the church, all of which results in an articulate and interesting discussion.

Visit Veterans

Ed Sullivan's March 29 program on CBS will be a filmed record of visits he and several performers will make to entertain wounded Vietnam veterans in Army hospitals in Denver and San Antonio. Involved are Flip Wilson, Bobbie Gentry, Buck Owens, David Frye, Nancy Ames and Gladys Knight and the Pips.

Westerns Moving

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Both "High Chaparral" and "Bonanza" will move from Paramount studios to Warner Bros. for future filming.

It's a Hit

New York City gallery-goers them have returned more than are responding in large numbers to an all-Woodstock artists' show about the idea of being exhibition in Manhattan. The show, for the benefit of the New York Woodstock Artists Association, is currently on view at the Walcott Fields Gallery, 14 Fifth Avenue.

Because of the great interest shown, the show has been extended through March 17. In addition, the gallery hopes to have a comprehensive exhibit of new work by leading Woodviewers saw the show during stock painters and sculptors in its first two weeks. Some of the spring of 1971.

Two Days of Twentieth Century Music

The music will go round and round on the State University College campus at New Paltz during a two-day "in residence" visit to the town-gown community by the Buffalo Philharmonic Orchestra.

Expectations are high that this will be an event to be remembered, since—first and foremost, the Buffalo Philharmonic is one of the nation's most excellent symphony groups. Arriving in full panoply, the orchestra will be conducted by nationally acclaimed Lukas Foss; will present two public evening concerts and an open rehearsal on campus, Sunday and Monday, March 8 and 9 in the college's Elting Gymnasium. Evening concerts will begin at 8:30 p.m.

The two days of music, music and more music will feature "Musical Masterpieces of the Twentieth Century," and is open to all area residents without charge. The unique and unusual event has been made possible through the University-Wide Committee on the Arts of the State University of New York.

An Inside Look

The music that will fill the air at Paltz is designed to acquaint listeners with music of this century, and to give an inside look into what's involved in preparing a concert, as well as a better understanding of the music presented.

As part of its Monday evening concert, the Buffalo Orchestra will present "Quarto Temperamenti d'Amore," a composition by Dr. Gundaris Pone of the Paltz music faculty, with famed baritone Norman Abelson the featured performer. Another not-to-be-missed part of the visit will be the panel discussion stated at 2:30 p.m. Monday in the Art Gallery, during which panelists Lukas Foss, Melvin Strauss, Morton Feldman, and Dr. Pone will explore much contemporary music.

An open rehearsal of music for the Monday evening concert will be held at 10 a.m. Monday. That night's concert will feature compositions by Copland, Ruggles, Ives and Feldman, including "Variations on 'America'" by Ives and Copland's famed "Lincoln Portrait."

Dates and times for music lovers to remember: The Sunday night concert at 8:30 in the gymnasium, Monday's open rehearsal at 10 a.m. in the gym, Monday's panel discussion at

2:30 p.m. in the Art Gallery, and Monday's 8:30 p.m. concert in the gym, featuring Abelson's rendition of the Pone work, a Stravinsky piece, and soprano Gloria Davy as the guest artist for Schoenberg's "Erwartung."

He 'Lives' Music

The Buffalo Philharmonic numbering 87 of the finest orchestral instruments in the U.S. dates back to 1936; is considered an outstanding and first-rate group. Lukas Foss, the orchestra's creative conductor is equally at home composing, teaching, conducting, performing on the piano, and "living" music in all its facets. He succeeded the illustrious Arnold Schoenberg as Professor of Composition in 1953 at the University of California; left that post for his Buffalo position in 1936. He has guest-conducted the Berlin, Leningrad, Munich, Turino, Vienna, Zagreb, and Oslo orchestras, as well as many top orchestras in this country, including Chicago, Cleveland, Los Angeles, St. Louis, San Francisco, and Rochester.

His interest in new music is reflected in the compositions which will be featured in the New Paltz concerts. This is truly one of the most innovative projects ever to be presented in Ulster County and, as such, should receive intense interest and success from the public.

'Cue Exploration' For Art That's Different

Something different indeed is the current exhibition of work by the Anonima Group, holding forth at the College Art Gallery, State University College, New Paltz, through March 25. Anonima, numbering New York artists Ernst Benkert, Frank Hewett and Edwin Mieczkowski in its membership, embarked three years ago on a rigidly defined program based on the psychology of perception. Since then each artist has followed a self imposed schedule for the exploration of two dimensional monocular cues of an "implied" three dimensional experience.

The paintings and drawings that have resulted in the current New Paltz campus show reflect the four phases of the stringent program, categorized as: Overlay Cue, Relative Size Change Cue, Brightness Ratio Cue, and Light and Shade Cue.

The trio of artists involved were on hand to explain their program and goals this past Thursday afternoon when the exhibit opened on campus with their presentation. For those who missed the discussion and reception, the display of their work will remain on public view through March 25; will intrigue viewers as one of the most unusual art shows of this or any other season.

Woodstock Artist Offers Paltz Art

In a blending of the art community of New Paltz and the art colony of Woodstock, the New Paltz Art Association is offering a 10-week period of classes under the instruction of Woodstock artist Franklin Alexander.

Classes for advanced and beginning painters are being held at the State University College at Paltz on Tuesday evenings from 7 to 10 p.m. Alexander's teaching concentrates on figures (from live models), portraits, still life and landscapes. Near the end of the sessions, three classes are planned for May in outdoor nature painting. Woodstocker Alexander is a painter with a wide reputation; also teaches Art at Dutchess Community College currently. He has studied with various schools and many teachers in the U.S. and Europe; was an early experimenter in abstract expressionism. Students find he has a strong understanding for self expression, and a broad and thorough education in classical methods and technique. His own paintings have won numerous awards and prizes, and he has shown internationally as well as locally and in Manhattan.

Those interested in further information on the New Paltz course should contact Marge Sheldon, 3 Paradise Lane, New Paltz.

POTPOURRI

By JOAN L. WOINOSKI
A spirited salute to Coach House Players for "The Star-Spangled Girl" which commanded oodles of "att-enshun" last weekend at J. Watson Bailey School where a cast of three top comedians put a SRO audience "at ease" . . . delightfully.

Directed by Stephen Krosner (a former Freeman paperboy, by the way), Neil Simon's comedy discharged crackjack dialogue with machine gun rapidity and Jonathan Green, Arthur Althiser and Terri Serravallo were naturals to enact it. (One should've seen the play twice tho' 'cause onlookers' howls drowned out parts of terrific script.)

That "life-upon-the-stage" is second nature to Jonathan Green was obvious by his finesse . . . Terri — in real life drama — taught dancing at YWCA, so portraying YWCA swimming instructor Sophie in comedy wasn't far afloat . . . as for this being Art Althister's first appearance in a CH production, his clever buffoonery made that fact hard to believe.

With 20 seasons under its belt, CH started a new decade with a tiptop hit to its credit. Throughout the slapstick antics, we kept musing 'bout another Neil Simon bonanza, "The Odd Couple," and wouldn't Green and Althister be great in the Matthau-Lemmon leads? (Speakin' of Green, if that line in program book, "Ask Jonathan about house in which he lives," was written to bug us it did!) (Was the set a carbon copy of his Woodstock pad?)

Patriotic to nth degree, "O Say Did You See" that the flowers presented to female "star" were "striped" carnations . . . red-white-blue, naturally.

Saturday night was a double-feature in that players and guests adlibbed another comedy way-beyond-the-footlights in Chic's Rendezvous at traditional cast party. It was also actor Althister's birthday; ditto for Rita Senor, Camilla Fox and Maxine Westbrook; Lou Jones provided decorated cake "For the Gang." Playing both big and bit roles were John Meehan, Tessie Mayone (the only-and-only), Rita Mary Senor, Murray Rivette, Virginia Cave, M. Joan Freeman—YWCA Youth Director. Organist Billy Cole aided Manny Pforlig who emoted birthday song.

The shindig ended at Port Ewen's Cardinal Inn and it'd be a "Cardinal Sin" if we didn't mention owner Charlie Hemmner who's one of original pitchers on Cardinal team, playing ball back in '20s during "gas house days of baseball." (He also played with New York Yankees and would make excellent copy for "This Is Your Life" program.)

Understand it was "Three O'clock in the Morning" before those diehard performers dropped final curtain.

Dean's Replacement

Dean Martin's summer replacement on NBC again will be a "Dean Martin Presents the Goldiggers" series, but this time the shows will be produced in London, utilizing European guest stars. Of course, there is nothing new about this; for several seasons, various summer replacement shows for U.S. television have been done in this manner. America's Charles Nelson Reilly will be a regular on the series.

A COMPLETE ACCOUNT of an Alaskan Polar Bear hunt is only one small part of the action outdoor motion picture, "This Is My Alaska." In this scene from the film, now showing at the Orpheum Theatre in Saugerties, a hunting party as just bagged a 1,500-pound giant of a Polar Bear.

pound lake trout, and hunting for caribou, moose, and ferocious grizzly bear, as well as White Dall Sheep, the most prized big game in all of North America.

All the Loving Couples

Wife-swapping, of all things, is the theme of "All the Loving Couples," now playing at the Rosendale Theater. Still, off-beat subject or not, the film has an excellent cast that makes it highly palatable for those with a taste for a slick exploitation film.

And this one is very slickly done; gets down to basics with lots of laughs and no nonsense; something a reviewer can rarely say these days about movies that concentrate on the bedroom.

At the Lyceum in Red Hook is "The Reivers," based on a William Faulkner novel. It's the turn-of-the-century tale of a boy and two ne'er-do-wells on a picturesque adventure. A totally enjoyable movie with a joyous sense of life and laughter.

And, although Steve McQueen and his grin are irresistible, Will Geer and Rupert Crosse almost steal the film out from under its star.

Butch Cassidy And The Sundance Kid

Paul Newman and Robert Redford play it for laughs as outlaws-on-the-lam in the not-so-old West. The finely written, beautifully directed film is the current attraction at Woodstock's Tinker Street Cinema. Up for a "Best Picture" Oscar next month, this is an excellent movie with a special dimension beyond the sly comedy.

Midnight Cowboy

Not to be missed is this film at Poughkeepsie's Juliet Theater. Both Jon Voight and Dustin Hoffman won Oscar nominations as a lost Texas stud and the sickly misfit who exploits him, respectively. A prize-winning performance also by Sylvia Miles as a prostitute, as well as an excellent score and dazzling photography that catches the mood of New York City for the losers of the world.

Ten Choirs Compete

Music Fills the Air As Glee Clubs Meet

Newburgh's Mount Saint Mary College Concert Choir will host the Eighth Annual Catholic Intercollegiate Women's Glee Club Festival, Sunday, March 8 at 3 p.m.

Each of the ten colleges, representing New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Connecticut, will present three numbers in the competition. Mount Saint Mary College has invited five judges who will decide the first, second and third place winners. They include Albert Van Achere, professor of music, Vassar College; David Randolph, conductor of Masterwork Chorus and St. Cecilia Chorus, New York City; John Castelline, professor of music, Queens College; City University of New York; Lee H. Pritchard, assistant professor of music, State University of New York—New Paltz; and Jack Best, minister of music, Congregational Church of Manhasset, Manhasset, N. Y.

The College Concert Choir will sing "Everytime I Feel the Spirit," "Ave Maria," and "Alleluia." Each group will be judged on poise, quality and tone of singing, expression, interpretation and general performance. In 1968, the Concert Choir placed third in the competition.

Tickets for the Festival are available at the College Cultural Centre booth or at the door on March 8. The public is invited to attend.

Three Black Dramas

A Black Drama Workshop will be presented at Orange County Community College on Wednesday, March 14, at 8 p.m. in the college's Orange Hall theater, Middletown.

A group of actors drawn from the State University at Buffalo and the Buffalo community will perform "Dutchman" by Leroi Jones and "On the Road" and "Rags and Old Iron" by Tony Preston. The plays are open to the public with $1 tickets available at the box office.

The Black Drama group, directed by off-Broadway actor Ed Smith, is touring colleges of the State University of New York under sponsorship of SUNY's University-wide Activities Office.

"Dutchman" Paved Way

Seeing a need for Black theater in the Buffalo area, Smith started workshop classes at the African Cultural center and the JFK Center and gave lectures on black theater at the State University. The Drama Workshop was started in January, 1969 after the successful staging of "Dutchman" at the African Cultural Center.

Smith also directed "How Do You Do" by Ed Bullins at the Studio Arena Theater. A professional actor from New York City, he has also performed in television and films. He was a member of the New Lafayette Theater in New York City.

The Most Fascinating Century In History a Delightful Feast

THE EIGHTEENTH CENTURY. Edited by Alfred Cobban. McGraw-Hill. $30.

This book is a delight for the eye and a feast for the inquiring mind interested in that most fascinating century in human history, the 18th. How could it fail, written by a group of English scholars, belonging to that breed which seems to produce the most professional surveys, and printed by the West Germans, who with the Swiss are turning out the most beautiful books in these inflated times? There are chapters on the most important branches of human endeavor—government, art, architecture, technology, warfare. There is also a too brief but perceptive postscript, written by the editor, Alfred Cobban, on the most fecund years in Western music, from Monteverdi to Haydn, Mozart and Beethoven. It is sad that after conceiving this grand schema and seeing most of its production through the hands of trusted colleagues whom he considered specialists in various fields, death prevented Cobban from ever holding the final printed volume in his hands.

Whimsical Old Prints

The color plates of portraits, landscapes and magnificent interiors of palaces and churches are unsurpassed for detail and brightness. The numerous old prints catch and hold our attention with their whimsical, or technical, or sometimes brutal realism.

The writing in some of the chapters may seem just a bit academic, but it is always highly informative.

In the midst of such riches, it is undoubtedly pedantic and ungrateful to pick out one error. This obviously derives from the fact that captions for the splendid pictures are seldom written by the experts who prepare the text. The instance mentioned is
